HAY HALO

Halo - Hay Patcher, by Hoist the Flag

Quick returns on your investment . . .

HAY HALO was a precocious runner himself, winning four of his six starts as a 2-year-old, including the Maryland Juvenile Championship S and Inner Harbor S, and gaining the Maryland-bred divisional championship. He earned a total of $233,993.

He is by HALO, sire of 2-year-old champions DEVIL'S BAG, SUNNY'S HALO and RAINBOW CONNECTION.

HAY HALO's female side is chock full of highly successful sires of 2-year-old runners—his half-brother BROAD BRUSH, CAPOTE, AMERICAN STANDARD, EXCELLER and BALDSKI.

Eastover Court

Seattle Slew - Heavenly Cause, by *Grey Dawn II

By a champion — out of a champion!

Few young sires offer this rare opportunity. Eastover Court is a son of SEATTLE SLEW, horse of the year at 3, out of HEAVENLY CAUSE, champion at 2.

SEATTLE SLEW, winner of $1,208,726, was champion at 2, 3 and 4. Perennially among leading sires, he is the sire of six champions, 61 stakes winners, including leading sires CAPOTE, SLEW O' GOLD, SLEW PY and SLEW CITY SLEW.

HEAVENLY CAUSE, winner of five Grade One stakes and $622,481, is the dam of TWO PUNCH, Earth Angel, Snowing, etc. Families don't get better than this—she is out of the sterling producer LADY DULCINEA, representing the family of SHY DAWN (dam of OPENING VERSE), PETITE ROUGE, etc.

Eastover Court, catalogued as a Keeneland July Selected sales yearling, was untied due to a bone infection which compromised his soundness permanently. An attractive individual and tremendous mover, he stands a strapping 16.3 plus hands.

Capture the Legacy of these Great Stallions at Hilltop Farm.

Our stallions are offered to you, the North American Breeder, with pride and excitement. Through more than ten years of study with some of Germany's finest horsemen, I have gained a deep understanding and belief in the athletic horse. Each of our Hilltop stallions has demonstrated tremendous athletic ability in all disciplines; each has his own story to tell. As I train these stallions and observe their offspring, I continue to grow more confident in their quality as performers and as producers. We invite you, the breeder, to learn more about their exceptional temperaments, their tremendous "heart" and willingness to perform, the quality of their offspring, and their athletic strengths. We invite you to hear each stallion's unique story and to share with us their legacy.

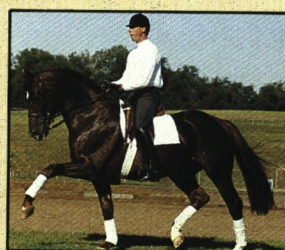

Best wishes,

CABARET: 🇩🇪 🇩🇪 🇩🇪 🇩🇪 🇩🇪
17 H bay Holsteiner;
Cor de la Bryere - Landgraf - Consul
The only full brother to legendary dressage horse, Corlandus. Cabaret has competed successfully in all three disciplines. His dressage career has been hallmarked by many national titles. Cabaret was the Reserve Champion in Grand Prix at the 1993 Regional AHSA Finals. Currently, Cabaret holds an average better than 64% for his '93 Grand Prix and Grand Prix Special competitions. He is twice the producer of record high-scoring premium offspring. Over 80% of Cabaret's offspring have earned premium awards.

PARABOL: 🇩🇪 🇩🇪 🇩🇪 🇩🇪 🇩🇪
16.2 H liver chestnut Westphalian;
Paradox I - Waldschutz - Lachs
Parabol was the winner of his 100-Day Performance Test with 140.38 pts., one of the highest scores in the history of performance testing. He was 1991 USDF Third Level Horse of the Year in his first year of dressage competition. Parabol was the Champion in Prix St. Georges at the 1993 Regional AHSA Finals. He currently holds an average better than 64% for his '93 dressage competitions at Prix St. George and Intermediate I. In 1993, Parabol produced a 9.5 premium filly for the Oldenburg N.A. association.

COR NOIR: 🇩🇪 🇩🇪
17.2 H black Holsteiner;
Cor de la Bryere-Marmor-Matador
This stunning black stallion is our newest addition. The combination of his overwhelming presence and spectacular movement is sure to lead him to an international career in dressage. He has inherited the athletic ability of Cor de la Bryere and the proven M-line gaits. In his 100-Day Test, Cor Noir received 9's on his gaits and his rideability. The potential of this magnificent young stallion promises to embellish the legacy of his ancestors.

Shamrock Farm branches out with range of breeds and services

By Heather Hayes

In this age of specialization, it helps to be just a bit of a generalist, says Jim Steele, manager of 640-acre Shamrock Farm in Carroll County. For the past three years the farm, unusual in that it breeds and raises both Thoroughbreds and Standardbreds, has increasingly opened its doors to additional breeds by offering such services as artificial insemination and embryo transfer. The strategy, Steele says, boosted Shamrock's income by about ten percent last year.

of the Pittsburgh Steelers, the farm has evolved, thanks in large part to Steele's management, from a low-key homebred establishment to one of Maryland's most successful commercial breeding farms. It currently stands one Standardbred, Super Bradshaw, and five Thoroughbreds, including long-prominent sire Dancing Count and Preakness winner Aloma's Ruler.

A Kentucky native and a purist, Steele has always been a race horse (and primarily Thoroughbred) man at heart. And he may have fought this venture into the "... we've kind of opened our eyes and tried not to live like an ostrich with our head in the sand."

"I don't think it's any joke that the race horse population, both Thoroughbred and Standardbred, is on the decline. But that's a fact of life," Steele explains. "We had to find a way to deal with the fact that the demand for breeding and boarding services was declining."

Selling land was an option, as was laying off employees. Steele and farm president Tim Rooney decided instead to try to increase business. "In the old days, big farms would have tobacco and cattle to supplement income," says Rooney, "and in these days you have to look for what's in demand and do whatever is necessary."

Shamrock is no stranger to cattle and crops. It still raises both. And it still, of course, has its race horse operation, which is and always will be the farm's main interest. Established in 1948 by Art Rooney, the owner sport horse market had it not been for a demand several years ago by Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw to breed one of his Quarter Horse race mares to Shamrock's homebred stallion Christopher R.

"I wasn't really excited about it," Steele admits. "I'm a bit of a stuffed shirt and I really believed that Thoroughbreds should be bred to Thoroughbreds. To me, allowing such cross-breeding only served to cheapen your stallion, to cheapen the breed. But Bradshaw was the quarterback, and we had to keep everybody happy."

Well, the breeding resulted in Sitting On Go, a stakes-winning colt who won more than $182,000 on the Quarter Horse circuit, higher earnings, in fact, than any of Christopher R.'s stakes-winning Thoroughbred progeny took home. Success helped Steele see things differently, and Christopher R. continued to serve Quarter Horses, as well as racing Appaloosas, along with Thoroughbreds, for the rest of his breeding career.

"Here was something I was kind of doing under duress and it turned out later, with the market changing the way it did, to be a selling point and a positive factor," Steele says. "And so we've kind of opened our eyes and tried not to live like an ostrich with our head in the sand."

Still, the foray into new markets wasn't planned; Shamrock stumbled onto the opportunity. Three years

"It's very exciting, all the possibilities that you have with this kind of procedure."

Thoroughbred stallion Rambo (Ire), shown on opposite page with Shamrock Farm manager Jim Steele, has found appeal as a sport horse sire as the Rooney family's 640-acre working farm in Carroll County revamps its position.

Shamrock has no intention of slowing its race horse operations.

ago, Steele was approached by a woman who owned a Morgan stallion named DJJJ Ebony Gold. She asked Steele if the farm was able to collect semen for artificial breeding.

This particular Morgan was in great demand because of his recent performance at a 100-day European stallion test. These tests gauge the athletic ability of various breeds through free jumping, cross-country, dressage and other events. All horses are given a numerical score and, though it's not perfect, it does offer a way for people to evaluate horses within a breed, comparing apples with apples, so to speak.

"This Morgan had scored the highest of any Morgan who ever took the test, and that's why people wanted his semen elsewhere," says Steele. "We had collected our Standardbred, so I agreed to take on the Morgan. That then led to the next step, which was shipping chilled, fresh semen."

Artificial breeding, accepted by Warmblood breed associations and performed for years, has a number of advantages over physical breeding. There is less risk of physical trauma both for the stallion and mare. The artificial act is more aseptic and, because it's cleaner, the conception rate is higher. It's also more efficient, as multiple mares can be bred at one time. Most importantly, it eliminates the need to ship mares from, say, Washington state to Maryland for breeding. Instead, semen is shipped overnight, via Federal Express.

Some situations require that collected semen be frozen. This is necessary when semen is shipped to Europe, or a stallion's genes are to be placed in storage as insurance against death or injury. Shamrock offers this service as well, though Steele admits that it is a complicated process and getting a mare to conceive with it is more difficult. In the freezing process, many sperm heads are damaged and the enzyme that aids fertilization won't break down.

"You really need to be on top of your game," Steele says. "The sperm don't live as long, so you have to breed as close to ovulation as possible. It takes more sperm because you're going to denature so many of them in the freezing process. So you really get into a situation where you start counting sperm and you have to know how many you've got and again the technical side of breeding and technological advancement really start playing a part."

Only one Warmblood stallion, an Oldenburg named For the Future, actually lives at the farm. Other stallions are brought in for collection and then returned to competition. One Holsteiner stallion who came in was actually on his way to the Olympics, Steele says (although the horse was injured in training before the event). While Shamrock began by collecting semen and then shipping it to the mares, owners now bring mares to Shamrock, where they are artificially bred.

Another cutting-edge technology that Shamrock is tackling is embryo transfer. The scenario goes like this: A donor mare is bred, six days later the embryo (if there is one) is flushed out and put into a recipient mare. When the foal is born it contains the genetics of the donor mare, who is never taken out of training and is able to continue to compete.

"Before, if you had a champion jump mare or driving mare you probably competed her as long as you could so she might be 15 or 16 when she stopped; then you'd be trying to start her reproductive life when she was really past her prime," Steele explains. "With embryo transfer, an owner doesn't have to wait 11 months for the mare to carry; also, there's no time lost while the mare's in milk and has the foal at her side. So the mare is still very fit. The mare is still in competition. And yet you're going to get a foal from that mare."

Embryo transfer also requires a great deal of attention to detail. Both donor and recipient mare (Shamrock always has at least two of the latter lined up) have to be hormone-treated to synchronize ovulation. But the mares often react differently, so one recipient mare may ovulate a day before the donor mare and the other may ovulate a day later. The one who ovulates closest to the donor is selected to receive the embryo. Sometimes the donor mare will ovulate two follicles so two embryos can be produced and placed in both recipients.

"It's very exciting, all the possibilities that you have with this kind of procedure," Steele says. Shamrock has Christopher R., bred and owned by Shamrock throughout his long and successful career as a Thoroughbred race horse and sire, also made his mark through such offspring as Christiana Oh, winner of the 1993 Texas Appaloosa Futurity Trial at Remington Park. Below, Standardbred stallion Super Bradshaw has found market at Shamrock.

TONY LEONARD

Steele forges onward

Shamrock Farm's manager Jim Steele is well-known for his many contributions to the Maryland horse industry.

A member of the Maryland Horse Breeders Association's legislative committee, a director of the Maryland Standardbred Breeders Association, and the breeder representative on the Maryland Racing Commission's Maryland Standardbred Advisory Board—to mention just some of his titles—Steele is drawing on his diverse experience to serve in a new capacity.

He was recently appointed by Governor William Donald Schaefer as a member of the Maryland Agricultural Commission, the state advisory group on agricultural matters. Steele succeeded MHBA executive vice-president Richard W. Wilcke, who served two three-year terms on the Agricultural Commission. The post held on this Commission by Wilcke, and now Steele, is as a representative of the horse breeding industry.

"Rich had a lot of input, and we're looking forward to the same from Jim," commented Agricultural Commission chairman A. Orrell Saulsbury III. "In the brief time he's been on the Commission, we've already been struck by Jim Steele's knowledge of the agricultural industry—both on horse-related issues and farming in general."

Steele, 44, has been involved with farming and horses his entire life. He grew up near Lexington, Ky., on a large working farm owned by his family, and participated in both FFA and 4-H activities as a youth. He earned a bachelor of science degree from Western Kentucky University, and completed graduate work in equine nutrition, virology and chemistry at the University of Kentucky.

Before he was hired to run Shamrock 17 years ago, Steele served a two-year internship at Gainesway Farm in Kentucky.

He has served for many years on the Carroll County Agricultural Commission, and is chairman of that county's Right to Farm Committee. The latter group is pursuing legislation that will protect agricultural uses and foster understanding between farmers and other residents in rural communities.

Steele and his wife Chris, who is also a knowledgeable horseperson and community volunteer, live on Shamrock Farm with their five sons, aged 11 to 3.

used embryo transfer for mares who are able to conceive but have uterine scarring and are unable to carry a pregnancy to term, as well as mares who suffer from heaves or other conditions that can cause miscarriage.

Dealing with such state-of-the-art procedures calls for a top veterinarian, and Steele says that Shamrock enlists Dr. John Hertgen, who worked at one time with the reproductive division at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center. Steele describes him as a "cutting-edge guy who's game for anything."

"When you try to maximize what you're doing. . . you take on fresh challenges."

Last year, Shamrock finally began advertising its extracurricular breeding activities. Ads ran in sport horse publications, describing the farm as a "full service breeding station and nursery." Another full-page ad marketed the services of Thoroughbred stallion Rambo (Ire) to breeds other than Thoroughbred.

Steele stresses that the new services have improved the quality of the Standardbred and Thoroughbred breeding operations. "We look at the quality of the semen differently. We're more conscious of changes and what's going on because we have to be so accurate and involved with the semen quality of these other breeds. On the mare side, we are able to pinpoint ovulation more accurately and breed closer to the time of ovulation, which of course increases efficiency."

Shamrock has no intention of slowing its race horse operations. Rooney emphasizes that the farm's most urgent matter at hand is finding additional Thoroughbred stallions. Negotiations to add one stallion to the roster this year fell through at the last moment. Rooney also wants to stand two more Standardbred stallions, preferably one pacer and one trotter.

Steele notes that the new ventures, besides increasing business and utilizing farm resources to the fullest extent, have added spice to an old recipe. "It used to be you bred a stallion to a mare and hoped for the best," he says. "It sounded simple and it was simple. When you try to maximize what you're doing, and do it in ways other than the ones Mother Nature established, you take on fresh challenges."

Pedigree and Performance For the Sport Horse of Today!

RAMBO (Ire) is a three-quarter brother to champion and good sire ASSERT (Ire) and half-brother to champions BIKALA and EUROBIRD (Ire). His sire, NORTHFIELDS, was a top American stakes winner, sire of sprint champion NORTHJET (Ire), and probably the greatest access to speed anywhere in the NORTHERN DANCER line.

RAMBO is siring classic-looking, versatile athletes, with sensible dispositions and willing, winning attitudes. In addition to success at the race track, his sons and daughters are highly acclaimed in the sport horse arena.

Among the versatile progeny of Rambo (Ire) are, from top to bottom: HOOLIGANISIM, stakes winner of $291,026, including Northern Wolf Handicap; LUCY, a draft cross, winner of Unicorn Combined Driving Event, training level; PENNY TWO SHOES, first place Sport Horse Conformation class at Howard Co. Breeding Show, now showing pre-green.

Breeding and farm notes

Bet Twice (right) edged out Lost Code to win the 1988 Pimlico Special.

Bet Twice to Northview

Classic winner Bet Twice has been moved to Northview Stallion Station, in Chesapeake City, Md., for the 1994 season.

Bet Twice won the 1987 Belmont Stakes-G1 and six other stakes (five graded), including the Haskell Invitational Handicap-G1, Arlington-Washington Futurity-G1, Laurel Futurity-G1 and Pimlico Special, during a career in which he recorded 26 starts, ten wins, six seconds, four thirds and earnings of $3,308,599.

By Sportin' Life (a son of Nijinsky II), Bet Twice is out of Golden Dust (by Dusty Canyon), who is also the dam of graded stakes winners Golden Treat ($338,163, Santa Anita Oaks-G1, etc.) and Bold and Gold.

From his first two crops to race (2 and 3-year-olds of 1993), Bet Twice is represented by five stakes performers.

His stud fee is $3,500 live foal.

Winbak's new stud

Bonnie and Clyde, the richest and fastest son of Dragon's Lair, has entered stud at Winbak Farm in Chesapeake City. His earnings total $501,138.

A seven-time stakes winner at 2, Bonnie and Clyde was the pre-season number one pick on the 1993 Experimental list of 3-year-old pacers. His victories included the Matron Stakes, and eliminations for the Woodrow Wilson, Metro and Governor's Cup Stakes, in the latter two of which he finished second in the finals. As a 2-year-old, his record for a mile was 1:53½.

Bonnie and Clyde is out of multiple stakes winner and 100 percent producer Lady Niatrose by Niatross. His stud fee is $2,000.

Six Standardbred stallions currently stand at Winbak, the others being Dictionary, In the Pocket, Jake and Elwood, Three Wizzards and Walton Hanover.

Now Listen to Corbett

Now Listen, a multiple graded stakes winner of $582,932, has entered stud at Corbett Farm in Monkton.

A 7-year-old son of Miswaki—Nowanna by Envoy, Now Listen won the Triple Bend Handicap-G3 (equaling the track record of 1:20¼ for seven furlongs), Daryl's Joy Stakes-G3, Louisiana Downs Breeders' Cup Handicap (twice) and Fort Lauderdale Handicap (setting a new course record of 1:40½ for a mile and one-sixteenth), during a racing career that spanned four seasons and included two victories in England. He won or placed in 13 of 24 career starts.

A half-brother to stakes winner Chick or Two ($202,200) and stakes-placed Subsidize, Now Listen stands, as the property of a syndicate, for $3,500 live foal.

Imperial Falcon returns

Imperial Falcon has returned to Maryland and is standing at Dr. William J. Solomon's Pin Oak Lane Farm in Free-land.

The handsomely-bred son of North-ern Dancer entered stud at Windfields Farm in Chesapeake City, Md., but was relocated to Kentucky after that farm ceased operation in 1988.

Out of the *Herbager mare Ballade, Imperial Falcon was photographed for the August 1984 cover of The Maryland Horse, when he brought a final bid of $8.25 million at that year's Keeneland July sale. He is a half-brother to champions Glorious Song ($1,004,534, horse of the year in Canada) and Devil's Bag, and stakes winners Saint Ballado and Thaidah.

From three crops of racing age, Imperial Falcon has been represented by nine stakes horses, with progeny earnings of more than $1.5 million.

Corbett gets Ziggy's Boy

Proven sire Ziggy's Boy has been moved to Corbett Farm in Monkton for the 1994 season.

From four crops to race, Ziggy's Boy has been represented by 12 stakes horses, including multiple stakes winner Blitzler ($547,706). His progeny have earned more than $2.6 million.

A son of leading sire Danzig and stakes producer Joe's Lil Girl (by Sunrise Flight), Ziggy's Boy was a graded stakes winner of $328,899.

His stud fee is $2,500 live foal.

Prospector's Music to Bonita

Prospector's Music, a son of leading sire Mr. Prospector and champion Minstrella, has entered stud at Bonita Farm in Darlington.

A $900,000 Keeneland sales yearling, Prospector's Music raced in France as a 3-year-old. An injury forced his retirement after he returned to this country at 4 last season.

Minstrella (by The Minstrel), the dam of Prospector's Music, won multiple Group 1 stakes in England and Ireland. She is a half-sister to multiple graded stakes winner Misty Gallore, dam of the top sire Silver Ghost (by Mr. Prospector).

Prospector's Music stands for $2,000 live foal.

Northern Dancer legacy

Another milestone has been reached in the career of Northern Dancer, the most successful Thoroughbred sire ever to stand in Maryland or, arguably, the world.

Northern Park, the last son of Northern Dancer to sell at public auction, has been retired to stand at Lanwades Stud, near Newmarket, England. Sold at the 1989 Keeneland July Select Yearling sale for $2.8 million, Northern Park is out of the English champion Mrs. Penny. He won nearly 1 million francs during three seasons of racing, his four victories including the Grand Prix de Villeurbanne.

Belgian stallions selected

The Belgian Warmblood Association-North American District has accepted six new stallions, bringing the total of approved stallions in the U.S. to 12.

Two of the approved stallions—Eros and Watchman—stand in Maryland, at Wind Crest Farm in Clarksburg. Watchman is new on the list, and Eros has been approved since 1990.

The Belgian breeding system insures the quality of offspring by requiring that at least 25 percent of a stallion's foal crop be presented each year, by requiring breeding certificates for every breeding, and by requiring that stallions present every year for re-approval.

Corbett's crew expands

Jeff Miller, formerly employed in the stallion divisions of Lane's End Farm and Vinery in Kentucky, is the new stallion manager at Corbett Farm in Monkton, Md.

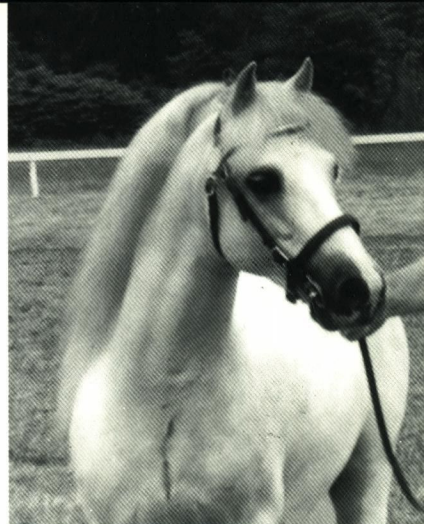

A native of Centralia, Ill., Miller also worked for a season at Widden Stud in New South Wales, Australia. He received training at the Oklahoma Horse Shoeing School and is a professional farrier.

Bronah MacDermott has returned to Corbett from her native Ireland, and is supervising the training barn.

Liseter Radiant dies

Highly accomplished Welsh show pony and sire Liseter Radiant died January 8 of colic. He was 21.

Three times grand champion at the Maryland State Fair (1988, '89 and '90), he was supreme champion at the 1988 Royal Winter Fair and AHSA high score Welsh driving champion in 1988.

Liseter Radiant: 1973-1994

Liseter Radiant's offspring include Southwind Snow Prince, the 1993 Welsh Eastern Circuit high score yearling colt; and Maryland Pony Breeders Futurity winners George and Radiant Dhu.

Bred by the Liseter Hall Farm of the late Mrs. Jean duPont, Liseter Radiant was by *Revel Capip out of *Coed Coch Pelen.

He was owned, since 1985, by Kinko Hackney, of Glencoe Farm in Cockeysville, Md.

Class Secret enters stud

Class Secret, a blue ribbon-winning son of Secretariat, has entered stud at Elberton Hill Farm in Darlington, Md.

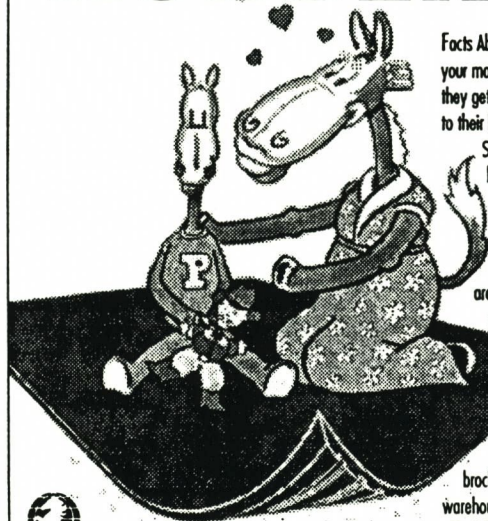

Given first place in the out-of-state sired class at the 1989 Maryland Horse Breeders Association Yearling Show judged by trainer Shug McGaughey, Class Secret has taken major honors at several other area shows. He was second-best yearling colt at the Upperville, Va., horse show judged on hunter conformation, as well as year-end MHSA reserve champion yearling and champion young sport horse prospect at the Howard County Horse Show.

Cutladdy's Champ to stud

Cutladdy's Champ, a Thoroughbred 4-year-old son of Cutladdy—Third Empress by King Emperor, has entered stud at Brave Venture Farm near Finksburg. His stud fee is $500 live foal.

FACTS ABOUT RUBBER MATS

Facts About Rubber Mats can be hard to come by. For instance, will your mare and foal look like the contented family pictured here once they get on those mats you just bought? Or should you strap ice skates to their hooves? After all, your horses are valuable, particularly to you.

Safety is the first word in your barn. A stall-related injury is the last thing you need. How do you really know if you're making a good decision if you choose Mat A over Mat B? Which mat is best?

PROTECTOR STALL MATS

are used at more vet schools in the U.S. than any other single rubber flooring product, and it's very popular for neo-natal and surgical recovery. Maybe these vets know something that you should know. After all, they have to have it right.

Class Secret

Secretariat - Class Wizard, *Mystic II

Son of Secretariat new for 1994

Half-brother to CLASS CHIEF, out of an allowance-winning daughter of steeplechase champion sire MYSTIC II. Unraced second dam is by Italian champion SIRTE, also a sire of steeplechase champions and sire of noted sport horse sires Clavier and Commensurate.

As a yearling, CLASS SECRET was a MHBA yearling show winner, MHSA reserve champion yearling, champion young sport horse prospect at HCHS and judged second best yearling at Upperville Horse Show.

Plagued by injuries throughout his racing career, CLASS SECRET gave his best performance in maiden special weight company at Pimlico, where he closed brilliantly to finish an impressive fourth.

Breeding for the 'chase: an analysis of leading sires

By Malcolm Commer Jr.

With the breeding season getting underway and spring steeplechasing just around the corner, it may be time for an article identifying the most successful 'chasing bloodlines.

Winning 'chasers are not freaks but are equine athletes with unique genetic compositions, as previous reports have established.

For this study, pedigrees of all steeplechase winners in the United States between January 1, 1990 and December 31, 1992 were analyzed. The data base included 377 'chasing winners and 49 steeplechase stakes winners. Two additional horses were eliminated because they were not registered with The Jockey Club, thus pedigrees were questionable. Sires in the first three generations were ranked with regard to frequency and exact position in the pedigrees. Additionally, separate figures were tabulated for steeplechase stakes winners as a measure of quality to supplement the simple quantity numbers associated with non-stakes winners.

A list of the leading sires of steeplechasers is presented in Table 1. Steeplechase enthusiasts will not be surprised to find Northern Baby at the top of the list, having sired six winners and three steeplechase stakes winners. The latter figure, which upon closer evaluation reveals that Northern Baby sired over six percent of all steeplechase stakes winners during the respective 3-year-period, is particularly noteworthy.

The propensity of the second-placed sire on the list, Iram (Arg), to sire winning 'chasers merits special mention. Considering the fact that only a limited number of his progeny have been imported, their success rate—if computed as a percentage of U.S. runners—is extremely high. There is little doubt that had Iram (Arg) stood in North America his ability as a steeplechase sire would be more widely recognized. Since another sire on this list—Hero's Honor—currently stands in France, the same point may be made about him, particularly in future years.

A comparison of the sires in Table 1 with those sires listed close to the top of the overall leading sires rankings will reveal that the best steeplechase sires are not the best overall sires. This statement is based on the fact that no sire listed in Table 1 makes it into the top 50 in the standings for overall progeny earnings from racing. If the comparison is made to the list of leading turf sires, the leading steeplechase sires fare somewhat better.

The race for the dominant steeplechase paternal grandsire goes to Northern Dancer in a walkover. His presence as paternal grandsire of 42 winners and six steeplechase stakes winners completely overshadows the influence of other leading sires in the category (Table 2). This conclusion is underscored by the facts that Northern Dancer is the paternal grandsire of over 12 percent of all steeplechase stakes winners and, excluding the influence of the second-placed sire in the category—his son, Nijinsky II, exceeds the total of the third through the seventh-placed sires in number of winners.

While Nijinsky II's rank as the second-leading paternal grandsire is a notable accomplishment, his influence as the leading maternal grandsire (Table 3) elevates his genetic prepotency to an advanced and more versatile level. (More on Nijinsky II's versatility later.) Analysis of the sires listed in tables 2 and 3 may produce a more accurate picture of the true genetic influence of specific stallions, since the demand for sons of certain sires such as Northern Dancer, Nijinsky II, etc. are clearly affected by economic factors. That is, almost anyone with a sound, athletic son of Northern Dancer will elect to stand him at stud after his flat track career versus steeplechasing him because of the comparative risks and money involved. This situation is minimized at the grandsire level.

Table 4 lists the leading sires in the third generation and categorizes their influence with regard to exact position in the pedigree. Other studies of pedigree have shown that placement (e.g., paternal versus maternal influence, etc.) is of paramount importance. A quick review of the first column will reinforce this point. Hill Prince is listed as the leading sire of the maternal granddam, while he is virtually absent elsewhere in the pedigree. Fortunately, the leaders in the second and third columns—Bold Ruler and Round Table, respectively—do not suffer this fate. However, the leader in column 4, Nearctic, presents a different problem.

Nearctic is clearly the dominant sire of the paternal grandsire. The problem? In all cases (100 percent) the Nearctic influence traces directly to Northern Dancer. Not once does Nearctic appear as the sire of the paternal grandsire of a steeplechase winner through another son. Be your own judge, but that fact sure sets off bells and warning whistles for me!

A summary, in which the sire's influence is weighted to account for generational factors, is presented as Table 5. Probably to almost nobody's surprise, Northern Dancer ranks as the most influential stallion for steeplechase winners and stakes winners. He has almost twice as many points as his closest rivals in both total points and stakes points. While the Northern Dancer influence totally dominates in both quantity (as measured by total points) and quality (as measured by stakes points), there is a caveat. When evaluating his influence through female lines (the sum of the points in the columns headed 2, 4 and 6), the Northern Dancer influence only accounts for a total of 16 points. In other words, 96.8 percent of the Northern Dancer influence is expressed through male lines. Given Northern Dancer's rankings among the leading broodmare sires of flat track earners, this is surprising. (More bells and whistles? Probably!)

While Northern Dancer is the extreme example of a stallion whose primary influence is expressed through male line progeny, he is by no means the only stallion to exhibit this tendency. Of the 21 most influential sires in Table 5, only three—Round Table, Sir Gaylord and Buckpasser—express a significant degree (40 percent or more) of their influence through female lines. Although Hill Prince didn't have enough total points to earn listing in Table 5, he is clearly another sire who should be noted with the female line group.

The most versatile sire in the group appears to be Nijinsky II, especially if age of sire is factored into the equation. Being a son of Northern Dancer, Nijinsky II is somewhat male line oriented—particularly with regard to steeplechase stakes winners, but similar analyses in future years are likely to include an increasing dominance in third generation female lines. Secretariat merits an honorable mention in the versatility category, and time appears to be his ally.

In June/July 1993, The Maryland Horse published an article entitled "Research indicates steeplechasers are a 'breed' unto themselves." That article focused on dosage. While calling steeplechasers "a breed unto themselves" may be a bit strong, the research indicates that there are several patterns that differentiate 'chasers from the general Thoroughbred population. Hopefully, the information presented in this article coupled with that in the previous article will enable steeplechase enthusiasts to refine their selection process.

Racing and sport notes

Maryland Million series

A new series of races—replacing the previous Maryland Million starter handicaps—is scheduled in 1994 for Maryland Million-eligible runners.

The dates—to coincide with Maryland's major racing days—and conditions are as follows: Barbara Fritchie Day (February 19), 1½ mi., fillies and mares, 3 & up, purse $15,000, claiming price $6,500; General George Day (February 21), 1½ mi., 3 & up, purse $15,000, claiming price $6,500; Pimlico Special Day (May 14), 1½ mi., fillies and mares, 3 & up, purse $25,000, claiming price

$14,500; Preakness Day (May 21), 1½ mi., 3 & up, purse $25,000, claiming price $14,500; Frank J. De Francis Memorial Dash Day (July 24), 1½ mi., turf, 3 & up, purse $35,000, handicap.

Maryland Million Ltd. expresses appreciation to the Maryland Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association for appropriating the purse monies for these races.

Steeplechase champions

Marylanders, as usual, figured prominently in the National Steeplechase Association's annual awards.

Champions Motorcade (novice) and Free Throw (timber) are each owned, trained and ridden by Marylanders.

Motorcade, owned by Irvin Crawford of Boyds, rose through the ranks, winning or placing in six of eight starts and earning $59,165. The highlight was a victory in the Foxbrook Supreme Hurdle, the second leg of the Sport of Kings Challenge, at Far Hills. Trained by Monkton horseman Joe Gillet, Motorcade was ridden by outstanding local steeplechase jockey J.W. Delozier III.

Free Throw, a consistent performer who finished in the money in each of his seven 1993 starts and concluded with a valiant victory in the Pennsylvania Hunt Cup, campaigns for the Glyndon-based Arcadia Stable of Andre Brewster, Peyton Cochran, Jay Alban and Charles Fenwick Jr. Ridden in the Pennsylvania Hunt Cup by Marylander Brooks Durkee, Free Throw is trained by Fenwick.

Phil Grove honored

Maryland jockey Phil Grove has been selected to receive two prestigious honors.

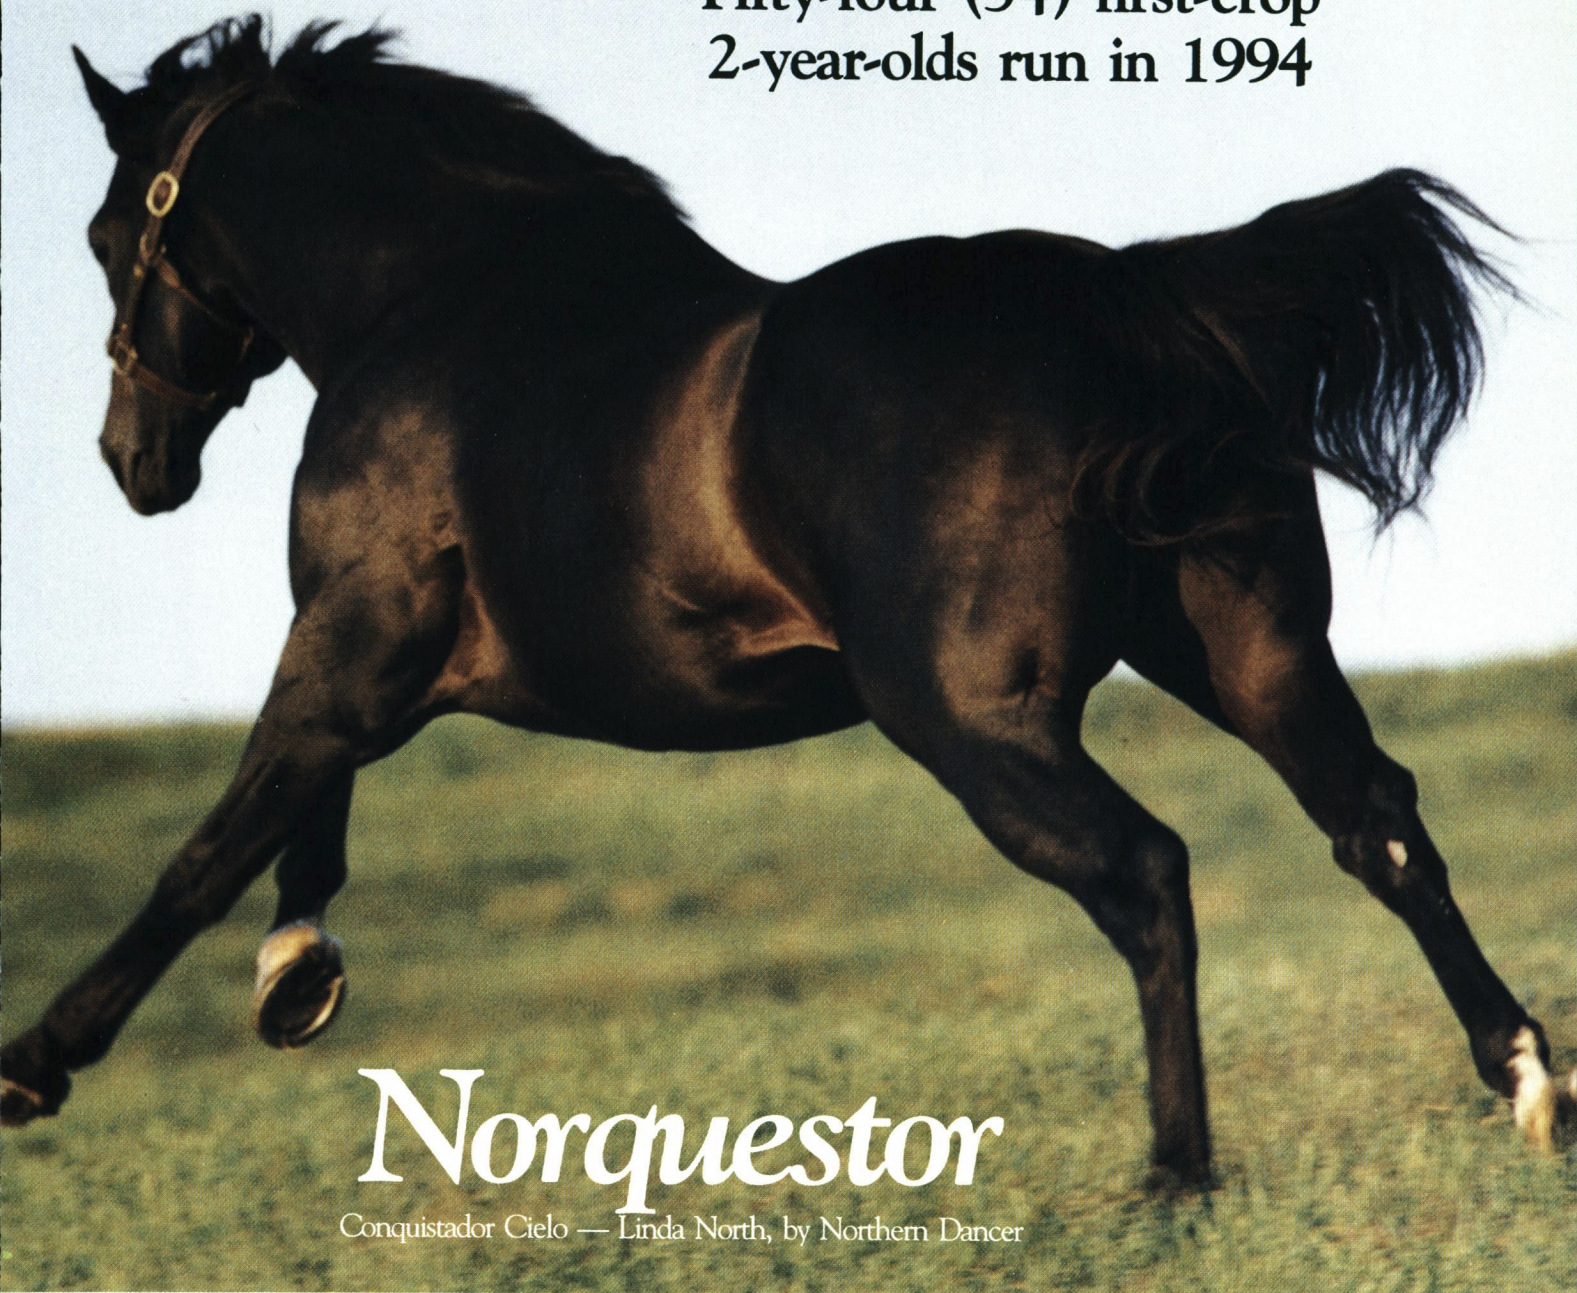

Nationally, he is the 1994 recipient of the George Woolf Memorial Jockey Award, given each year to a Thoroughbred jockey whose career and personal character reflect the highest ideals of the sport.

National Steeplechase Association timber champion Free Throw (top) and novice Motorcade are owned, trained and ridden by Marylanders.

Phil Grove

Grove is also being inducted into the Maryland Sports Hall of Fame.

Born in Frederick, Grove, 46, has ridden primarily in Maryland and West Virginia since launching his career as the nation's leading apprentice in 1967, and is closing in on his 4,000th victory.

A member of the board of directors of the Jockeys' Guild, Grove has persevered in spite of a number of riding accidents, some of which threatened his life and/or career. He has won riding championships at Charles Town and in Maryland and ridden to victory in many local stakes.

Grove was chosen by fellow Jockeys' Guild members from six nominees for the Woolf award. Also nominated were Craig Perret, Dean Kutz, Larry Melancon, Gary Stevens and Vicki Warhol.

Star Minister retired

Star Minister, a two-time Maryland-bred champion whose temperamental antics were exceeded only by her talent, has been retired from racing.

Bred and owned by Robert E. Meyerhoff, Star Minister compiled an admirably consistent record, winning or placing in 18 of 21 starts and earning $458,650. Her seven stakes victories included the Cotillion Handicap-G2, Twixt Stakes, Maryland Juvenile Filly Championship and the 1993 Port of Baltimore Maryland Distaff. She was voted Maryland's champion filly at 2 and 3 (1991 and '92).

However, her wing-dings—typically sparked by the whip or the saddling enclosure—tested the expertise of Star

Minister's trainer Richard Small and rider Andrea Seefeldt.

A 5-year-old daughter of Deputy Minister—Dynamic Star by Silent Screen, Star Minister is being bred this season to Broad Brush.

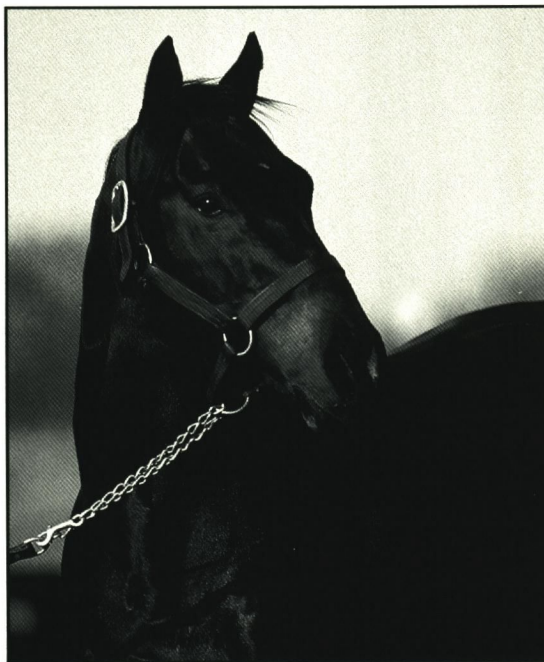

Laurel Quality of Life

Within the next few months, groundbreaking is expected to take place on an innovative housing project near Laurel race course.

Three buildings, each accommodating 34 residents, will offer a housing alternative for backstretch employees. To be staffed by live-in counselors, the arrangement will be the first of its kind offered at any race track in the country.

"We're delighted to be making progress in this much-needed effort," said James P. Ryan, the prominent Maryland owner/breeder who spearheaded the project. Named Laurel Commons, it is being developed by The Enterprise Foundation, which specializes in construction of low-cost housing nationally.

Handle up at Maryland tracks

Mutuel handle on Maryland's major Thoroughbred circuit, which now includes wagering on live racing, off-track betting and simulcasts to out-of-state locations, rose significantly in 1993.

Laurel/Pimlico reported a total in-state handle of $397,624,729 for 1993—an increase of 5.9 percent over the previous year.

The 1993 gross handle (total wagers) reached $490,717,685, for a 20 percent gain over the 1992 figure of $410,780,263. And the amount of money wagered out-of-state on Maryland races totaled $93,092,956, registering a 31.1 percent increase over 1992.

A total of $114,854,404—nearly 30 percent of the gross handle—was wagered on full-card, commingled simulcasts of out-of-state racing from such tracks as Belmont Park, Calder and Del Mar.

The wagering distribution breakdown was reported as follows: Laurel, 49.9 percent; Pimlico, 33.3 percent; Rosecroft, 10.1 percent; Cracked Claw OTB, 4 percent; Poor Jimmy's OTB, 1.6 percent; Delmarva Downs, .8 percent; The Shoals OTB, .3 percent.

Overall attendance decreased by 7.3 percent from 2,584,480 to 2,396,318. However, that figure does not reflect attendance at Maryland's three OTB sites, which opened in 1993.

MTHA awards

The Maryland Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association honored outstanding achievers of 1993 at its annual Christmas party held December 20 at Laurel.

Stakes upgraded

Laurel's Frank J. De Francis Memorial Dash and Pimlico's Early Times Dixie Handicap are among four Maryland stakes races increased in stature for 1994 by the North American Graded Stakes Committee.

The De Francis Dash and Dixie Handicap—each formerly Grade 3 events—are now Grade 2's.

The Maryland Budweiser Breeders' Cup and Pimlico Distaff Handicap, previously ungraded, will be run as Grade 3 events at Pimlico this spring.

Team penning gains support

Team penning, an increasingly popular sport, now has its own national organization.

"It's a real family sport," says Bill Shisler, who publishes the magazine Team Penning U.S.A. "Most anyone can team pen using any horse."

Potomac Horse Center

The Potomac Horse Center in Gaithersburg—formerly known as the Maryland Horse Center—is living up to expectations under new management, reports director Paul Novograd.

The five-year lease assumed by Novograd last October on the property owned by Montgomery County requires the new director to spend at least $40,000 a year on capital improvements, in addition to general upkeep. A new plumbing system, roof repairs, and rebuilding of the stalls and aisles have all been completed, according to Novograd, and plans call for re-siding the main building with wood this spring.

Six full-time instructors, including chief dressage trainer Becky Langwost, teach at the facility, which currently hosts about 400 lessons a week. "Response has been tremendous," says Novograd.

Wicomico Equestrian Center

The Wicomico Equestrian Center near Salisbury is gaining momentum, thanks to the efforts of local volunteers.

Five horse shows were held at the facility in 1993, and that number is expected to double in '94, reports fund-raising chairman Rebecca Miles.

The Wicomico Equestrian Center has three arenas, a large natural-grass parking area that can double as a competition area, and a 36-stall barn. Originally part of the former Winterplace Farms, the 17-acre property is owned by the Parks and Recreation Department of the Wicomico County Council. However, it is privately supported, with a 15-member board of directors.

For more information about the Wicomico Equestrian Center contact Rebecca Miles at (410) 543-1711.

Oldfields takes championship

The Oldfields School riding team, from Glencoe, Md., took both the varsity and junior varsity titles at the Mid-Atlantic Interschool Championships held November 14 at Madeira School in Virginia.

Leading the varsity team were twins Liberty and Laurel Mullen, high point and reserve high point riders.

St. Paul's School in Brooklandville, Md., was runner-up to Oldfields in the varsity division.

Show president re-elected

Gregory W. Gingery, of Rockville, Md., has been unanimously re-elected to serve as president of the 1994 Washington International Horse Show.

A longtime horse enthusiast and an active member of the Potomac Valley Dressage Association and the Potomac and Keswick Hunt Clubs, Gingery competes in the adult hunter and jumper divisions on the "A" circuit. He is president of the Gingery Development Group, which specializes in commercial office building development.

Judge advises: go by the book

By Mark Laird

For quite a few years now, I've been judging horse shows—open shows, 4-H fairs and breed association shows. In all that time, the most difficult class, the one class for which I cringe to hear the results announced, is lead line.

Can you imagine being given the responsibility for deciding who is first and who is last among a group of tiny, impressionable youngsters just beginning to learn the fun of participating, and also the importance of winning?

Even in a lead line class the winner is usually the child who demonstrates the best riding ability.

But riding ability alone is not enough, whether a child is 4 or 14. Children still need to be educated about safe and effective ways of caring for a horse or pony.

If your child is just beginning to get involved in showing, let me give you some advice. Get a rule book. It can be a rule book from any recognized association, but try to find the one that best matches your horse or pony and riding style.

This book will tell you what you need to know—about what's expected of you when you go to a horse show, and the rules that have evolved for the safety of all concerned.

The basics of horse show organization—how classes and events are set up and judged, are explained in a rule book.

Proper attire is described in detail. You'll learn how to choose the correct equipment for your riding purposes, as well as what is considered acceptable at a particular type of show. Remember that these guidelines were developed for safety and effectiveness, as well as for style. Proper headgear is especially important.

Rule books or handbooks also provide information on how to handle your horse or pony. Whether you are at a show or in the barn at home, proper leading and handling helps prevent broken toes and fingers.

Of course, each type of horse show is governed by its own rule book. But general rules are available from every association or club. All you have to do is ask.

One excellent source is the rule book published by the Pony of the Americas (POA) Club, Inc., 5240 Elmwood Avenue, Indianapolis, IN 46203; (317) 788-0107.

Von Csavek's new career

Maryland-owned Von Csavek, who won the 1992 Maryland Hunt Cup and ten other races during his storybook career as a timber champion, has taken off in a new direction. The 12-year-old gelding won his first jumper class at a show in New Jersey in December.

Noted trainer Frank Chapot is handling Von Csavek in his new career. Chapot's daughter Laura is Von Csavek's show ring rider.

De Francis's Virginia plan

Laurel/Pimlico president Joe De Francis now has his sights set on a northern location for his proposed new race track in Virginia.

The track will be built in Loudoun County, on 250 acres of undeveloped land approximately three miles northwest of Dulles Airport, if De Francis's bid is successful. His original proposal for the track—to be named Patriot Park—had placed the site in New Kent County, between Richmond and Williamsburg.

"Based on projections made after referendum for off-track betting in Alexandria and Arlington failed by such overwhelming margins last November, we decided to shift our focus to northern Virginia," De Francis said. "Access to the northern Virginia market is critical to the success of any racing venture in Virginia, and our Loudoun County location, just minutes from the heart of Virginia's horse country, will best serve Virginia horsemen and Virginia racing fans.

"The basic concept of the Patriot Park facility is little changed from the original application filed with the Virginia Racing Commission in October, 1993," stated De Francis.

The basic concept for a Maryland/Virginia racing circuit has been endorsed by the Maryland Horse Breeders Association and the Maryland Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association. However, several key elements—such as what would happen to Maryland's unused racing dates—have yet to be determined. De Francis presented his current proposal to the Maryland Racing Commission at its January 12 meeting. The Commission has not yet been asked to take a formal position on the plan.

De Francis prevails

It was a race down to the wire. Only one day before the January 21 deadline, Joe De Francis ended the seemingly endless rounds of speculation and legal rumbling by announcing that he will buy out the stock owned by his estranged partners Bob and Tom Manfuso, thereby maintaining ownership control of Laurel and Pimlico.

"I have the money, and I'm buying them out," De Francis reportedly told the Baltimore Sun.

No additional investors are said to be involved, although the purchase apparently was facilitated by Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke. Announcement of the buyout was contained in a press release that focused on Cooke's intended purchase of 100 acres of land now occupied by Laurel race track.

Cooke plans to build a new $160 million Redskins stadium that could transform Laurel into a sports complex similar to the Meadowlands in New Jersey. Construction is reportedly scheduled to begin in September, 1994, to be completed in time for the Redskins' opening game in 1996.

Joe De Francis gave up a promising career as a corporate attorney to take over management of Maryland's two major Thoroughbred tracks following the death of his father Frank De Francis in August 1989. Along with his sister Karin Van Dyke and Martin Jacobs, Joe De Francis held slightly more than half the stock in Laurel and Pimlico; the Manfusos held the balance.

Bitter disputes between the two groups soon surfaced, and in May, 1990, the Manfuso brothers gave up their day-to-day involvement in the tracks.

But that arrangement was not, necessarily, destined to last. October, 1993, was set as the date on which either side might activate the now-famous Russian roulette clause. Under the terms of Russian roulette, one side would offer to buy out the other at a specified price; the other side must either sell or buy for that amount.

Last October 8, the Manfusos fired a shot heard around the racing world. The amount they set was $8.2 million.

De Francis had until January 21 to make his decision, under settlement terms mediated in December by a Baltimore judge.

Numerous individuals were named as potential partners for De Francis as the deadline drew closer. Approaching the final hour, a take-over by Hollywood Park Inc. and its CEO R.D. Hubbard appeared likely.

But hardly anyone predicted the exact outcome.

"Most breeders would be relieved to have the ownership issue resolved," said Maryland Horse Breeders Association executive vice-president Rich Wilcke, "so that racing can become the management and media focus once again."

Well-known for his quick-developing 2-year-olds, CLEVER CHAMP has sired 47% 2YO winners lifetime, including eight in 1993. Sire of 1993 SW CHAMPION JAY ($121,555), plus Clever Mary, Clever Moment, Stickers n Scuffs.

Buffels moves up another notch

Buffels ran the race of her life in winning Laurel's Straight Deal Handicap. A longshot at odds of nearly 17-1, she made a strong closing move on the outside to defeat Jazzy One by a neck.

Buffels campaigns for Lakeville Stable, a partnership of Baird Brittingham and Dan W. Lufkin. She was claimed by Lakeville Stable and her trainer King T. Leatherbury for $12,000 on July 24, 1992 at Laurel. Since then she has risen steadily through the ranks, placing in three stakes prior to the Straight Deal.

Bred by Victor C. Stevens, of Chambersburg, Pa., Buffels was bought back by Stevens, as a $2,000 RNA, at the 1990 Eastern Fall Yearling sale, and raced for him until claimed by Lakeville Stable and Leatherbury. Stevens still owns Buffels's dam Speedy Tweetie (by Proud Birdie). Speedy Tweetie's only other foal to race failed to break his maiden in six starts; the mare has Norquestor 2-year-old and yearling colts.

Canton River is one who didn't get away

Canton River can easily stand on his own merits: as a 2-year-old in 1993, he finished in the money in each of seven starts, won two stakes, and earned $123,605.

But for breeder/owner Andrew G.P. Hobbs, at least part of the satisfaction must come from the fact that the gray Waquoit gelding has accomplished far more than his older half-sister Under Oath did at his age.

Under Oath, claimed away from Hobbs for $25,000 as a 3-year-old in 1989, went on to win several stakes, including the Grade 3 Honey Bee Handicap. The daughter of Deputed Testamony retired with earnings of $426,547.

Canton River, the second stakes winner Hobbs has bred from his homebred stakes-winning mare China Bound (\$155,563, Bristol H, Whitemarsh H, etc.), has never started in a claiming race. He annexed his first stakes in Maryland when he prevailed by three-quarters of a length as 9-5 favorite in Laurel's Rollicking Stakes. Crossing the wire behind him in the Maryland Fund event were, in order of finish, Lt. Hill, Concern, Run Alden, Don's Sho, Foxie G, Pleonastic, Kayacan, Red's Cave and Warning Glance. Carrying 115 pounds, five less than highweighted Run Alden, Canton River gave two pounds to the runner-up and completed the seven furlongs in 1:24 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Returning in the Maryland Juvenile Championship, on December 11, Canton River finished second, three-quarters of a length behind victorious Run Alden.

Although he finished out of the money in his next start, Laurel's mile and a quarter Congressional Handicap won by Northern Launch on December 26, Gertrude and Leonard (Skip) Leviton's horse earned $143,665 during a stellar 5-year-old campaign consisting of nine starts, three wins and two seconds.

The Walter Haight Handicap is named for a Washington Post handicapper and sports columnist who died in 1968.

Jest Punching rises through ranks

If Maryland had a 1993 claimer of the year title, Jest Punching would take it in a walkover.

The Two Punch gelding, claimed by owner Larry Fowler in December 1992 for $20,000, gained his third stakes win of the season when he scored by five and a half lengths in the Northern Dancer Stakes. He defeated a competitive field of fellow Maryland-breds consisting of, in order of finish, Wa Bert, Pescagani, Quality Ruler, Take Heed, P. J. Higgins, Woodliketobe and Sunny Boca.

Jest Punching was a model of consistency in 1993. He won or placed in 10 of 11 starts, earning $183,010.

The first stakes winner for Fowler, who is vice-president of Merrill Lynch investment firm in Washington, D.C., Jest Punching is one of five 1993 stakes winners to represent his sire, who stands at Northview Stallion Station in Chesapeake City, Md.

Eighth, Bewarned, Lady Beaumont, Goldgorian's Alden and Rock the Nest.

Love to Be Loved is from the first crop of Hay Halo, multi-millionaire Broad Brush's half-brother who stands at Green Willow Farms near Westminster, Md. Hay Halo won the 1986 Maryland Juvenile Championship and was champion Maryland-bred 2-year-old colt.

The victory capped off an outstanding season for Maryland Million Ltd. president Roger Schipke and his family. Schipke and his wife Jackie purchased Love to Be Loved in the name of their Colts Ltd. stable for $21,500 at last year's Fasig-Tipton Midlantic Two-Year-Olds in Training sale. Love to Be Loved is one of two 2-year-old stakes winners the Schipkes and their trainer Bill Boniface brought home from that sale, the other being 1993 Selima Stakes-G3 winner Irish Forever.

Love to Be Loved, who races for the Schipkes' daughter Kimberly A. Schipke, was bred by the Seven Dots Farm of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Litz. Consigned by Litz to auction at Timonium as a weanling, she was purchased by Phil Capuano for $3,000. Capuano, of Upper Marlboro, consigned her to the 2-year-olds in training sale, with Litz as agent.

Love to Be Loved is the ninth and last registered foal from her dam Silverly (a foal of 1974 by Cornish Prince), whom Litz purchased in foal to Elocutionist for $14,000 at the 1985 Keeneland January sale. All of Silverly's foals are winners, and she is the dam of one other stakes winner, Silver Sinner ($55,673, Ruffian S, etc.). Litz sold Silverly privately after Love to Be Loved was foaled.

Mz. Zill Bear celebrated New Year's Eve with an All Brandy Stakes win that boosted her 1993 earnings over the $200,000 mark.

After stumbling at the start, Bill and Phyllis Dixon's homebred mare gamely made her way around horses and prevailed by a head over Gammy's Alden in a hard drive. The 119-pound highweight, Mz. Zill Bear conceded four pounds to the runner-up, who crossed the wire a length in front of third-place finisher Tennis Lady.

Completing the field in the Maryland Fund event were Buffels, Starlight Surprise, Champion Jay, Say It's Gold and Just About Dawn.

Northern Launch set on lofty course

Although Northern Launch turned 5 on January 1, owner Joseph Keelty and his advisor Don Litz believe the horse's career may have only just begun.

"He has the dosage profile of a mile and a half horse, and all the stamina in the world," said Litz, who acted as agent when Keelty purchased Northern Launch's dam for a six-figure price from the Kinghaven Farms dispersal at the 1988 Keeneland November breeding stock sale, with the current stakes winner in utero.

"We're looking forward to running him at long distances on the turf in '94."

Northern Launch matured into a stakes performer last fall, registering close seconds to Forry Cow How in the Hail Emperor Stakes and Gala Spinaway in the Walter Haight Handicap. He scored impressively in allowance company, then went on to a tour de force in the Congressional Handicap.

Rated just off the pace in the early stages, Northern Launch drew off to a two and a quarter-length victory over Greatsilverfleet, recording his first stakes win. Both Forry Cow How and Gala Spinaway—considered the main challengers in the nine-horse field—finished out of the money. Final time was 2:03½.

Unfortunately for Keelty, there won't be any more foals produced from Northern Launch's dam Relita (by Vice Regent). A half-sister to Canadian champions Steady Growth (3-year-old champion male of 1979) and Kingsbridge (1983 champion grass horse), Relita was only 9 years old when she died from foaling complications in 1992.

Being prepared to make their first appearances carrying Keelty's Dumbarton Farm colors are Relita's 3-year-old Lord Gaylord colt Jigger's Friend, whose debut has been delayed by bucked shins, and her 2-year-old filly by Waquoit.

Pescagani displays winning versatility

Turf or dirt, Pescagani found a solid foothold last season. The Caveat colt, purchased by owner Vincent Drecchio's One Plus Two Stable as a yearling at Timonium for a bargain $8,500, notched his second 1993 stakes win in the Japan Racing Association Stakes. Leading all the way, Pescagani prevailed by three and a half lengths over longshot Oscar Max.

Originally carded on the turf, the Japan Racing Association Handicap was instead run over a sloppy track.

Pescagani emerged as one of Maryland's top turf performers last summer when he was runner-up to Awad in the Humphrey S. Finney Stakes and then came back to win Laurel's Sir Ivor Stakes.

He finished out his 1993 campaign with a third-place finish (behind Jest Punching and Wa Bert) in the Northern Dancer Stakes on November 13; and a fourth in the Annapolis Stakes on December 4.

his three-quarter-length victory in the Maryland Juvenile Championship.

Hal C. B. Claggett's homebred went right to the front and set every fraction, leaving in his wake, in order of finish, Canton River, Don's Sho, Kayacan, Looming, Lt. Hill, Barge In, Concern, Beware the Quest and Blaise Winter. Three of those colts—Looming, Barge In and Concern—all sons of Broad Brush from the powerful stable of breeder/owner Robert E. Meyerhoff, started as an entry, and were dispatched as odds-on favorites.

But they were no match for Run Alden, who paid $20.40 to win, after traveling the mile and an eighth in 1:50³/₅.

Run Alden's last previous outing, a well-beaten fourth in the seven-furlong Rollicking Stakes, may have discouraged backers. But he managed to come through when it counted the most. The Juvenile Championship was the second rich stakes win of the season for the colt, who captured the $100,000 Crown Central Petroleum Maryland Nursery on Maryland Million Day.

Run Alden, who earned $175,225 while winning or placing in eight of 11 juvenile starts, is closely related to Claggett's famous homebred Little Bold John. Sold by Claggett as a 2-year-old, Little Bold John, who was trained throughout his career by Run Alden's conditioner John J. (Jerry) Robb, recently retired with earnings of $1.9 million. Both Run Alden and Little Bold John are sons of John Alden, who stands at Bonita Farm in Darlington, Md.; Run Alden's dam Run Equine Run (by Run Fool Run) is a half-sister to Little Bold John.

Smart Alec's winning streak

Smart Alec won back-to-back stakes in November.

Dispatched as 9-5 favorite in Laurel's Challedon Handicap, he rallied to a two and a half-length victory, defeating, in order of finish, Military Look, Ameri Valay, Flaming Emperor, Apparitiontofollow, Gala Spinaway and One Tuff Oop.

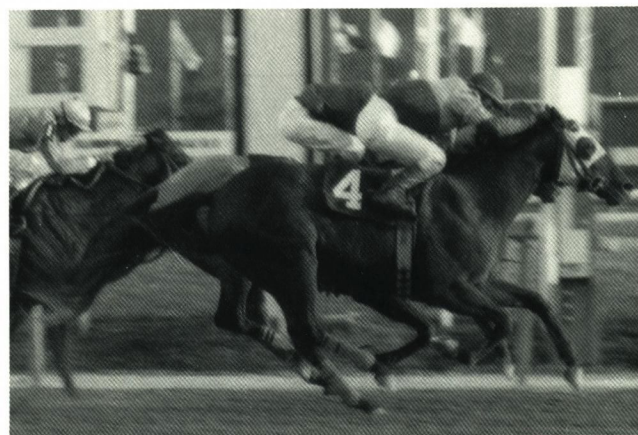

Mrs. Wylie F.L. Tuttle's homebred returned, again as favorite, and annexed Laurel's Dave's Friend Stakes. Carrying high weight of 122 pounds in that race, he scored by a head over Apparitiontofollow, while giving seven pounds to the runner-up.

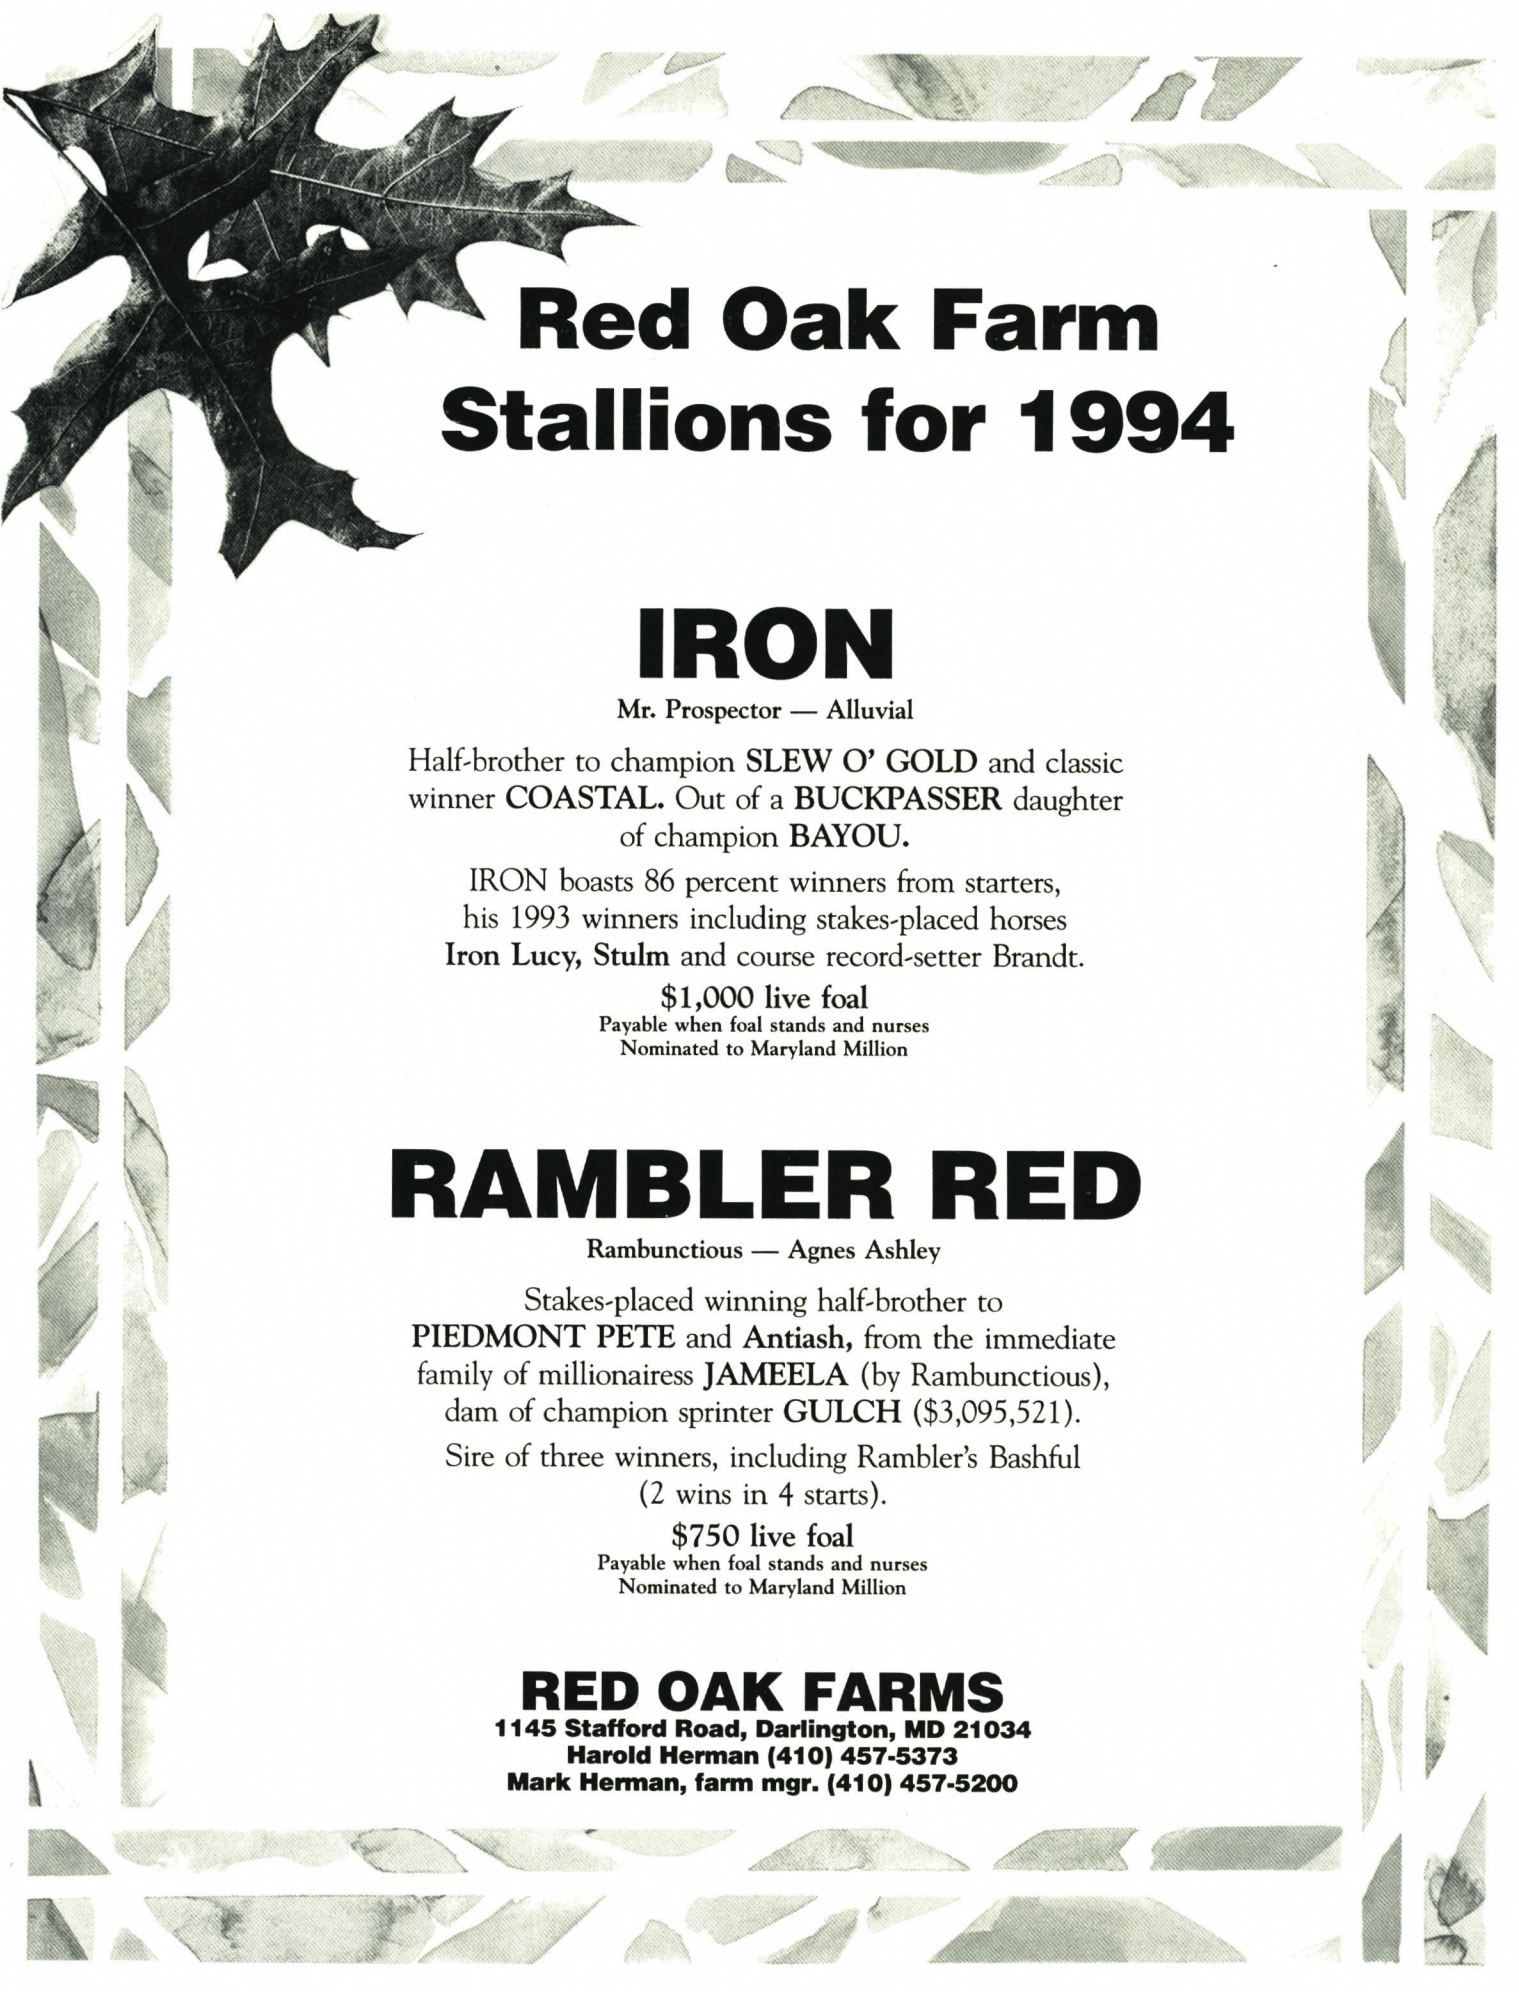

Nearing the half million dollar-mark in earnings, Smart Alec is among the best sprinters to campaign in Maryland in the last several years.

Smart'n Noble won four 1993 stakes

Smart'n Noble won more stakes than any other Maryland-bred 2-year-old filly in 1993, registering victories in the Snow Plow, Cameo, Good Move and Heavenly Cause Stakes.

In her most recent, the Heavenly Cause, she drew off to a five and a quarter-length score over five Maryland-bred rivals. Finishing behind Smart'n Noble, who carried 116 pounds, were 121-pound highweight Lady Beaumont, Prospective Joy, Therighttoneleft, Private Pouf and Emotional Energy.

Smart'n Noble returned to finish a close second to Love to Be Loved in the Maryland Juvenile Filly Championship on December 11. From 12 juvenile starts, she won or placed eight times and earned $142,839 for the Nickel's Stable of Patricia Nickel and her sons Stewart and Stephen, who purchased Smart'n Noble for $18,500 at the Fasig-Tipton Midlantic Eastern Fall Yearling sale.

Starlight Surprise a Vanderbilt legacy

When consigned to the 1990 Fasig-Tipton Midlantic Fall Yearling sale by breeder Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Starlight Surprise brought only $1,500. Now she is a stakes winner of nearly $150,000.

Bringing back images of great Vanderbilt performers of the past, Starlight Surprise set every fraction en route to victory in Laurel's Queen Isabella Stakes. A longshot at odds of more than 20-1, she crossed the wire two and three-quarter lengths in front of the classy Broad Gains, who held a length and a half margin over odds-on favorite Stem the Tide.

The first and only foal to race from her unraced dam Bread Fruit (by Restless Native), Starlight Surprise is not actually a surprise, based on her pedigree. Bread Fruit carries the bloodlines of Native Dancer, top and bottom, her sire Restless Native being a son of Native Dancer, and her dam Bread and Butter (by Damascus), a great-granddaughter of Native Dancer's full sister Teahouse.

Starlight Surprise, purchased at the sale by her trainer Roberta Riffle, is owned by Riffle in partnership with Dorothy Oliff.

Claggett and both are by John Alden.

JOHN ALDEN: A leading sire and best bargain with FOUR 1993 stakes winners

Perennially a leading sire in Maryland, JOHN ALDEN has sired earners of over $1 million in 1993 with seven stakes horses, including: RUN ALDEN ($175,225 at 2, 1993), winner of the $125,000 Maryland Juvenile Championship and $100,000 Maryland Million Nursery.

STAR JOLIE ($101,957), winner of the $100,000 Florida Oaks over Eclipse award winner HOLLYWOOD WILDCAT.

GAMMY'S ALDEN ($212,826), has finished first or second in nine stakes to

Who Wouldn't totes banner for Baederwood

Sent off as odds-on favorite in the Thoroughbred Retirement Foundation Stakes (a race restricted to progeny of stallions whose services were donated to the annual TRF auction), Who Wouldn't didn't disappoint his backers.

Carrying high weight of 122 pounds, the Baederwood gelding rallied to a decisive half-length victory over four rivals. Finishing behind him were Mr. Moby Dick (by Horatius), Flaming Emperor (Hail Emperor), Key to Manhattan (Corridor Key) and Charlie You Know (Horatius).

Although it was his first stakes win since June, Who Wouldn't came into the race in good form. In his last previous outing, the USAir Maryland Sprint Handicap on Maryland Million Day, he finished a close third behind Military Look and Jest Punching.

Winka extends winning streak

Winka was undefeated in her last three starts of 1993. Laurel's Contrary Rose Stakes, in which she prevailed over a competitive field of five older fillies or mares, was her latest triumph. Carrying second high weight of 120 pounds, Winka scored by a head over fast-closing Suspect Terrain, who was getting five pounds. Final time for the six furlongs was 1:10 2/5.

After winning Laurel's Capp It Off Stakes on October 24, Winka had a victory on December 2 in allowance company.

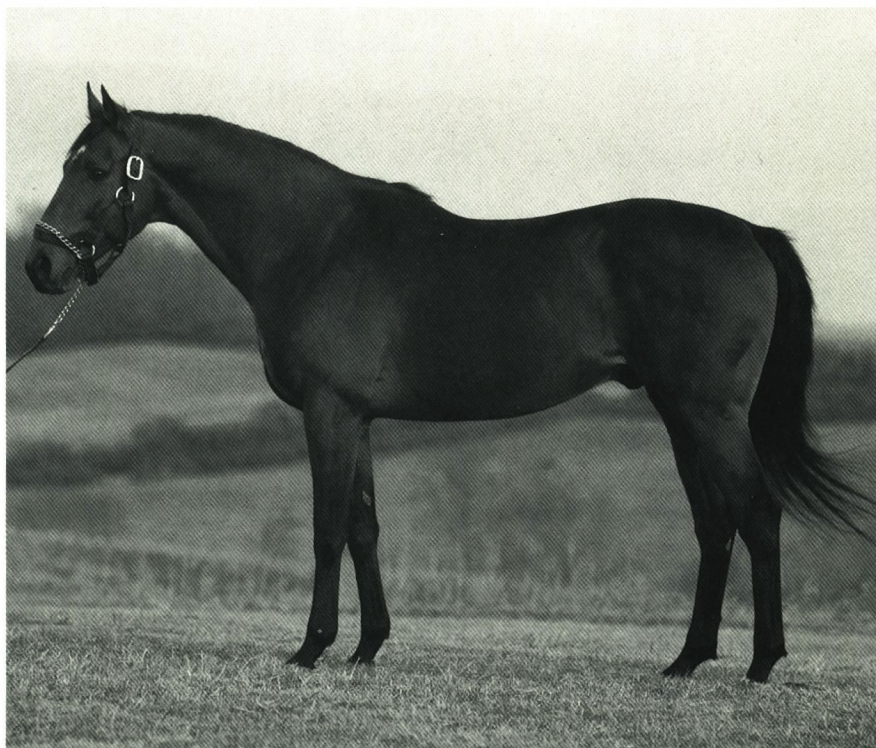

Winka is bred and owned by Gilbert P. Hahn, a Washington, D.C., attorney who has been prominent in Maryland racing circles over the past decade. Hahn claimed Winka's dam Linka for $20,000 in 1984, and campaigned her to place in stakes and earn more than $100,000. Winka is Linka's fourth foal to race, and first stakes performer. Boarded at Ron and Carolyn Green's Green Willow Farms near Westminster, Md., Linka has a 2-year-old filly by Waquoit and a yearling Baederwood colt; she is barren for 1994.

Starting 'em young: junior racing picks up speed

By Laurel Scott

Junior pony racing is taking off like never before. Especially here in Maryland where young jockeys-in-training are truly in a league of their own.

Rivals such as Kelly Conaway and Elizabeth Voss take it very seriously indeed. The two 13-year-olds matched strides in last year's Governor's Cup junior rider series; in the end, Elizabeth edged Kelly by just one point.

Competitive? You bet. But these children display composure beyond their years. "You like it most when you win," Kelly Conaway admits, "but even if you don't win, it's still fun."

Run on the flat, from one quarter to three-quarters of a mile, the junior pony races are a learning experience for everyone involved and, above all, sheer delight. They're grouped into three divisions, according to pony size. A suitable mount is key, and safety is stressed, with helmet, chinstrap and overgirth mandatory. Body protectors are recommended. And children may ride in whatever tack they find comfortable—even a Western saddle.

Children as young as 8 have faced the flag; it all comes down to ability. Those who start on ponies may race "under rules" until they reach 16, or go on to compete in junior horse races until age 18.

Riders considering a career in racing have every reason to take a stab at this sport. A list of pony league graduates reads like a who's who of the steeplechasing world. Included on that list are two-time champion 'chase jockeys James (Chuck) Lawrence II and Ricky Hendriks; Maryland Hunt Cup winner Patrick Worrall; and Charles Fenwick III, who has ridden successfully both over jumps and on the flat.

Noted rider/trainer Joe Gillet of Monkton learned many a valuable lesson aboard ponies. "It cultivated a competitive spirit, and taught me basic lessons in race-riding—patience, and the fact that you're only as fast as your pony, no matter how good a rider you think you are. And that if you've got a slow pony, you need to think a little harder, and start a little faster," he says.

"I think that it gives the kids a taste for racing, and that's all very good," says esteemed rider/trainer Charles Fenwick Jr., whose three children have all raced ponies. But the Butler-based horseman advises young riders also to foxhunt or join Pony Club if they're serious about race-riding. "I always say, if a person wants to be a steeplechase jockey, then that person's got to jump 1,000 fences—as many as he possibly can, foxhunting, showing, things like that."

Emily Fenwick, daughter of the five-time Maryland Hunt Cup winning rider, keeps up the family reputation with a hard-charging victory aboard J.A. Nicely at Potomac.

JANET HITCHEN

Primed for action aboard Little Rusty ten years ago at the Howard County hunter pace, Chuck Conaway learned the ropes from his father Charles Conaway Jr., who now conducts clinics (such as the one pictured above) to educate young riders on various aspects of competition.

Organized pony racing is a relatively recent twist on a sport steeped in tradition. Though Maryland has hosted such events off and on for decades, the last attempt at a circuit came in the early 1970s, according to Joe Gillet. At that time, the action was almost entirely over fences. "We had a series of three pony timber races, one of which was called the Pony Maryland Hunt Cup," says Gillet who, together with Roger Smithwick, Ricky Hendriks, Bernie Houghton and a number of others, competed in these contests.

Over the past decade, pony races popped up at various Maryland and Virginia point-to-points, as well as the odd National Steeplechase Association-sanctioned meet. Intended largely as pre-race entertainment, they were run on the flat and often shared billing with terrier races and drill teams.

Enter Charlie Conaway Jr., father of pony rider Kelly Conaway. A communications network engineer by trade, the affable Mt. Airy horseman is credited with organizing the current pony racing circuit.

It was a natural enough step. Conaway, who breeds and trains for the track, once rode steeplechasers. And his son Charlie III—Chuck—had already begun racing in area pony events. At that time, the Marlborough, Potomac and Elkridge-Harford Hunts all sponsored such races, but the Conaways' own hunt club, Howard County, no longer ran them.

With help from race official Harvey Goolsby, Conaway sought to revive the tradition at the 1991 Howard County-Iron Bridge race meet. "The circuit really started unintentionally; they agreed to have the races, and I agreed to have some clinics here at the farm," Conaway says. "I also went to the Howard County Pony Club and made some presentations, trying to get some people involved."

The clinics, both unmounted and mounted, helped to build both enthusiasm and confidence. "We took them through all the motions of preparing for the races. We had the kids go out single file, so I could see who was having trouble with their ponies," Conaway explains. The ability to gallop with control and maintain a safe distance in company was emphasized, as was paying attention to the starter. Conaway and company even introduced the children to rein-knotting and other tricks of the trade.

Stirrup leather length and type of saddle were other issues addressed. "The main thing I tell them is that if you want to ride shorter, that's fine, but don't wait 'til race day to do that. And don't switch tack on race day; if you haven't schooled in that new racing saddle, don't ride in it," says Conaway.

To minimize cost, Conaway recommended youngsters ride in colorful windbreakers or sweaters before springing for a set of silks. And overgirths and helmets could always be borrowed, if need be.

NEENA EWING

"The important thing is, we wanted to assure the race committees that these kids would come to the paddock on time, knowing what to do, and with the proper safety equipment. For the first year's races, we even had a day walking the race course, so we could see where the finish line was, and so forth. I had to make sure things rolled," Conaway explains.

That spring, Conaway also put together a special videotape of Maryland and Virginia pony races in an effort to promote the sport and give clinic participants a sneak preview of the action.

It all worked like a charm. "I took race entries for Howard County. We had three divisions—for small, medium and large ponies—and we had at least 30 entries!" Conaway recalls. "We ended up getting a ton of rain, so we scratched down. But we still filled the races."

Candy bars and apples awaited all participants. For the winners, Conaway and Goolsby persuaded a local saddlery to donate pony-sized coolers emblazoned with "Howard County-Iron Bridge Races."

Response was immediate, and positive. Other race meets took note; even the NSA-sanctioned Grand National in Butler hosted pony races that year.

Kelly Conaway rode Garfield to a close victory over Alexis Makarov and Nickles and Dimes at Howard County in 1992; Charlie Conaway and son Chuck accepted trophies from the late Lucy Saunders at Marlborough.

JUNIOR RACING

SKIP BALL

Junior horse races—a natural transition from the pony races—were introduced at the Howard County-Iron Bridge race meet the following season (1992). “Marlborough already had one, and the Grand National had one, on and off,” Conaway says. “And Virginia, too, although they’ve had some problems with that division. Again, it comes down to suitability. It’s a fine line. And the problems we have had generally come from people who have not been to the clinics; it’s a big jump.”

Junior horse races are regular features now at the Elkridge-Harford, Howard County-Iron Bridge and Marlborough hunt races. A junior horse race has also been carded at Fair Hill’s spring meet, though it is not part of the Governor’s Cup series.

The trick to putting juniors on horses, Conaway feels, is distance. “The longer a junior horse race is, the more it helps,” he says. For this reason, he feels Roedown, the site of the Marlborough races in Davidsonville, is the ideal venue for such contests. “Marlborough runs a mile race and they’re set up well for it, because you’ve got that long back side and that rounded last turn, and if you can’t pull up, you can just circle the course. They've also got professional outriders there, which makes a big difference."

The jump from ponies to horses is simply a matter of speed, according to Joe Gillet. "Ponies stay in first, second or third gear. Horses go from third gear to fifth gear. Until you're in a race, you don't realize the difference. When they get up in their fifth gear, they become much more difficult to steer and control." To this end, Gillet believes the junior horse division requires heavy supervision. "The race committee just needs to be very strict about who's allowed to ride and who's not," he says.

For that matter, Gillet says, all junior races should be carefully monitored. "Any hunt meet that has junior races needs to designate two or three jockeys or coaches to check tack. That's very important, because three-quarters of the kids who roll off, roll off because the saddle slips."

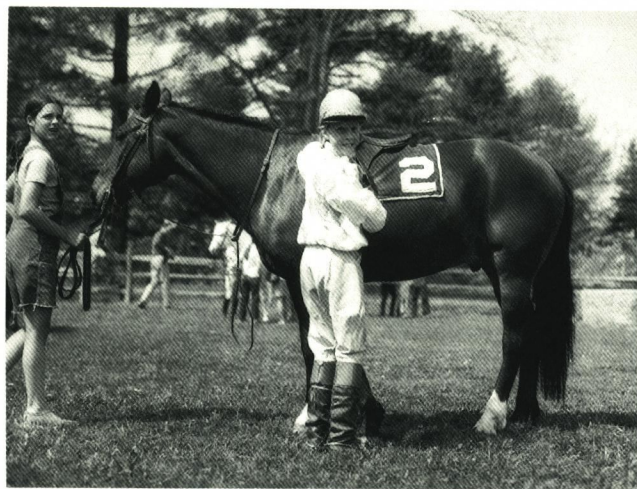

In 1992, Maryland juniors began competing for their own annual award, courtesy of the new Governor's Cup Series sponsored by the Prince George's Equestrian Center. Under Governor's Cup rules, it's the junior riders who accumulate the points, not their mounts. Points may be earned in either the pony races or the junior horse races. And an overall award is given, rather than divisional awards.

Kelly Conaway was the first recipient of the junior Governor's Cup award, which received unprecedented publicity in its first year. Now unofficial head of the junior Governor's Cup circuit, Charlie Conaway was soon approached by officials of Elkridge-Harford point-to-point for help in the paddock with their pony races. Similar requests from Potomac and Marlborough race officials came later, he says.

Then, in December, 1992, came a meeting of minds among Maryland steeplechase officials. The Maryland Steeplechase Association was formed at that time, uniting not only the point-to-points but the NSA-sanctioned My Lady's Manor, Grand National and Maryland Hunt Cup as well.

"It was agreed that the Grand National's pony races would become part of the junior Governor's Cup," Conaway says. "So we added a fifth race meet this past year to the junior Governor's Cup circuit, which was very nice and helped to further legitimize the junior Governor's Cup."

CAPPY JACKSON

In addition, Conaway was named "central entry" for the junior pony races, both to keep points and to qualify riders.

Headed into the first meet of 1993, Conaway held a special unmounted clinic in which a veteran outrider discussed what a jockey should do to "request" a pick-up. It was a lecture Kelly Conaway would remember well when, at Marlborough hunt races, a lost stirrup resulted in the need for outrider assistance.

Attendance at this particular clinic hit an all-time high. "The room was full. We were there a few hours, and the questions and interaction were dynamite," Conaway says.

The mounted clinics that followed were well-attended. And although inclement weather in the spring of '93 forced the cancellation of the Howard County-Iron Bridge races and the postponement of the Marlborough hunt races, activity proceeded elsewhere without a hitch.

As the Conaways will attest, pony racing quickly becomes a family affair. What started with Chuck and continues with Kelly has been passed on in some degree to their younger sister Jennifer. While Charlie Conaway trains his young jockeys, his wife Barbara plays a major supportive role at both the clinics and the race meets. "I sort of hold things together, steady the ship," she says.

The ponies have multiplied, too. Besides Natalie, a small pony who gave Kelly her first win, there's Garfield, a medium pony who packs a wallop; Doonesbury, a small Appaloosa gelding; and Got All Night, the Conaways' new large pony entry. Not to be forgotten is the Conaways' homebred Rollin' Slew, who debuted in the junior horse ranks under Chuck.

The right pony can mean the difference between fun and frustration. Conaway recommends that aspiring race riders start out on the quietest mount available, "so they understand the process. Suitability and safety are my big things. There have been enough problems in pony races over the years; we're trying to minimize that, and still give these kids the opportunity to race."

When the competition gets tough, however, no ordinary pint-sized vehicle will do. The top four or five large ponies at the moment are stunted Thoroughbreds, says Conaway. In the long run, however, breeding doesn't matter.

Neither does size. Says Conaway: "The first week of the year, we qualify all the ponies and measure them. We try to be as fair as possible, but if the pony is up or down a little bit, that's O.K."

Attitude, however, does matter. "Find one who loves to run," advises Kelly Conaway.

Conaway's search for pony prospects has rendered him a sort of pony clearing house. "People call me if they have hot ponies, or if they're looking for ponies. I'm not a horse dealer, but it's been happening that way," he says.

Case in point: Garfield, a small medium pony and the Conaways' star performer. Garfield turned up as part of a trade, his "bad" reputation preceding him. "But he wasn't bad," insists Conaway. "People wanted him to be a show pony, because he was a good-looking, flashy pony. But Garfield didn't want to be a show pony. He ran away from everybody."

Started in pony races under Conaway's older son Chuck, Garfield soon earned victory between the flags. Then it was Kelly's turn to try her luck, and the combination sizzled.

"Garfield rattled off 13 in a row; then he was sick this past spring. But he's been squared away, and now he's resumed the streak," Conaway says. Garfield has other talents, as well. "He loves to hunt," Kelly confides. And he excels at hunter paces and Pony Club mounted games.

Ponies like Garfield and Elizabeth Voss's veteran mount, Jay, are worth their weight in gold. But children sprout quickly, or develop other interests—mostly, Conaway says, by age 15 or 16.

When that happens, there's only one thing to do. Find another family with an up-and-coming race rider. Jay is a good example of a wise old pony who has trained many a young rider in this fashion. The Fenwick family first enjoyed her services; steeplechasers to the core, Charlie and Ann's children Beth, Charlie III and Emily all competed in the pony ranks. Several years ago, the Fenwicks gave Jay and a small pony named Frisky Business to Monkton trainer Nancy Knox and her family. At the time, Jay, a large pony, was too big for the Knox children. So she was loaned to Elizabeth Voss, for her championship year.

Now that Elizabeth is interested in moving on to horses, and the Knox children have grown, Jay is back with the Knoxes again. Eleven-year-old Arabella will be her next jockey, while younger sister Avery, 9, will debut this year on Frisky Business.

"We got into pony racing because the Fenwicks were kind enough to pass their ponies on to us," Nancy Knox says. "We haven't dealt much with Jay yet. But Frisky is amazing. In Arabella's first race on her, there was this big turn. Arabella went one direction, but was meant to go the other. Frisky hunched her heinie and pushed Arabella right back into the saddle. I've never seen anything like it."

One of the beauties of pony racing is the scope of its lessons—children not only care for their own mounts, but generally condition them as well. In Garfield's case, the regimen begins with foxhunting or hunter paces.

"I don't gallop Garfield that much—if I do, he gets hot; he just wants to go too much," Kelly Conaway says. Her father adds, "He stays about three-quarters fit on his own; Kelly just has to sharpen him."

Jay is a different story altogether. Strictly a racing pony, she is brought out each spring and tuned up much the way a 'chaser would be. "I just go out in the field and gallop her," says Elizabeth Voss.

Frisky Business's conditioning approximates interval training. "We used to have this huge hill," Arabella Knox says. "It was about a half-mile around. I'd start with maybe one walk around the hill, mostly uphill, one trot around and four canters, and then I'd work it up, all depending on her breathing. When she was really fit, I would walk her around once to get her ready, trot her around twice and then gallop her around six or seven times," she explains.

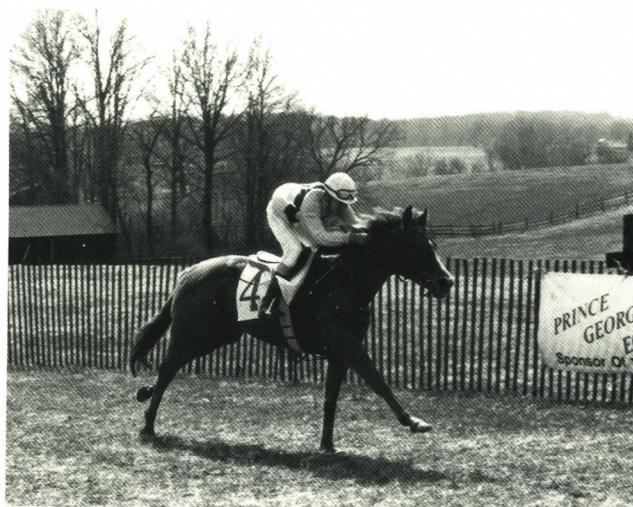

Come race time, some ponies' natural competitiveness kicks in. "As soon as another pony comes up to about my leg, Garfield starts stretching out; he feels like he gets lower," Kelly says.

The top pony riders agree that the start is the toughest part of most races. Whether it's the brief distances involved or just jitters, there's plenty of jockeying for position at the drop of the flag. "It makes you nervous," says Elizabeth, who won four races to Kelly's three in the 1993 Governor's Cup series. "Once you get going, though, it's a little easier."

Kelly Conaway concurs. "You want to break first, because you want to be on the inside of the turns," she explains. "You want your pony to be moving, and you want to be up front. You're nervous, and they're nervous." Veteran pony rider Arabella Knox also has cause to worry about starts. "If it's a windy day, you don't know whether they've raised the flag and dropped it, or if it's just waving in the wind. It's really confusing," she confides.

"Once you get started, though, you don't feel anything," Kelly Conaway maintains. "You don't feel your legs getting tired, and you don't hear anything except the other riders and ponies. And you don't think about falling that much."

Special memories abound. For Elizabeth, the Marlborough win that booted her ahead of Kelly last year was noteworthy. But an earlier victory at Potomac was even more memorable, for a different reason. "I got cut off around the line of poles; that's where the turn was. Someone came on the outside and pushed me in, and I almost didn't make it around the turn—I thought I was going to fall off," she says shyly. But make it she did—to the finish line, first.

As they embark on their race-riding careers, many pony leaguers look to parents or siblings for guidance. On occasion, an adult jockey will play the role of mentor. Jarrettsville rider Rebecca Driver has given Elizabeth Voss a few tips, for instance. And accomplished junior rider Jonathan Kiser of Whiteford has a dedicated coach in the aforementioned Joe Gillet.

Pony racing in Maryland is now up to speed, thanks to Charlie Conaway. In the future, he hopes to offer clinics with new and different guest speakers, as well as some geared toward more advanced riders. At the moment, however, he is especially proud of his one-stop entry/scratch data base, an idea borrowed from Virginia's "central entry."

Though pony racing is limited primarily to the spring and summer, Conaway makes the most of that by keeping tabs on the Virginia circuit as well. His data base lists nearly 35 riders, some of whom compete on both circuits. Race dates sometimes overlap, too. In places, the schedules complement each other perfectly: Virginia's Rappahannock Hunt point-to-point makes a good prep for Maryland's Howard County-Iron Bridge meet, for example. "Once I get the Virginia and Maryland condition books, I put together a list of all the junior races, and mail that out, so people up here know when to go down there," Conaway says.

Small ponies parade to the post at Elkridge-Harford, with Nancy Knox leading daughter Arabella on Frisky Business.

The possibilities are endless. "I now have a mailing list for a newsletter—I sent one out last spring," he says. Though he may have to charge for expenses in the future, Conaway is content, for now, to have centralized things.

And to have introduced newcomers to the sport. "Up to now, kids raced because their parents were involved in racing. Now we're giving other children a way to hear about it, see about it, get involved," he says. "Last year, we started to get calls from kids who said, 'Hey, I'm in 4-H and I have a pony. Can I come to the clinic and just watch?' We get a couple of those out to the races and get them educated, and they're like sponges.

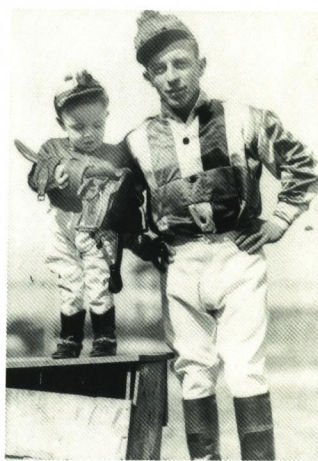

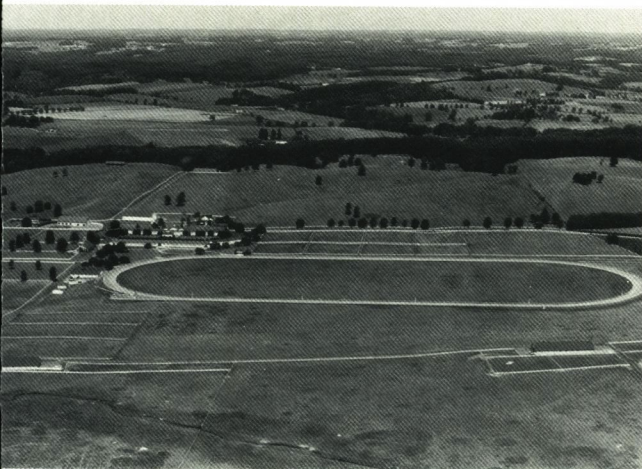

"Those are the things that have been exciting to me—not only seeing my own kids ride, but getting other young children involved, giving them something else to do."

Conaway's enthusiasm is infectious. "The circuit has gotten bigger and bigger; Charlie's done a really good job with it," says Jarrettsville trainer Tom Voss, father of leading rider Elizabeth. Clinics, he feels, are the key. "I talked to Charlie about it, and I think we ought to have a couple of them in different areas. A lot of these kids really want to do it," he says.

Even Joe Gillet has pony fever again. His protege, Jonathan Kiser, will be a force in this year's junior horse races, and might also try his hand in the foxhunters' division. "And we're going to try to resurrect the junior timber races, although liability is a problem," Gillet says. "There just needs to be an enthusiastic group of kids to promote it."

Though she says she still gets nervous at every start, Elizabeth Voss says the "thrill" of racing keeps her coming back for more. That sentiment is echoed by other members of the pony league, all of whom express interest in a race-riding future.

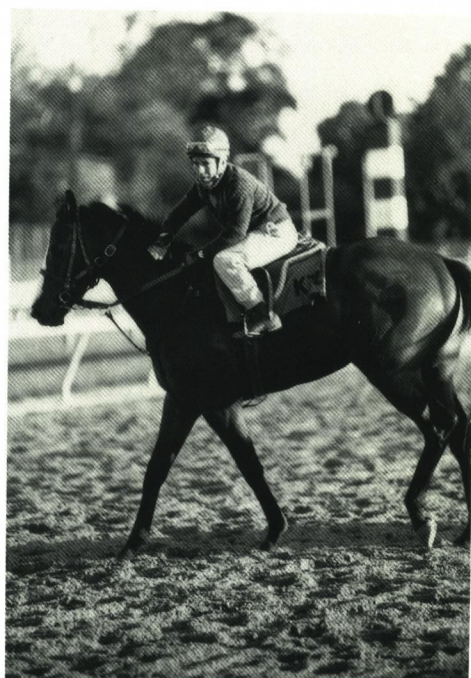

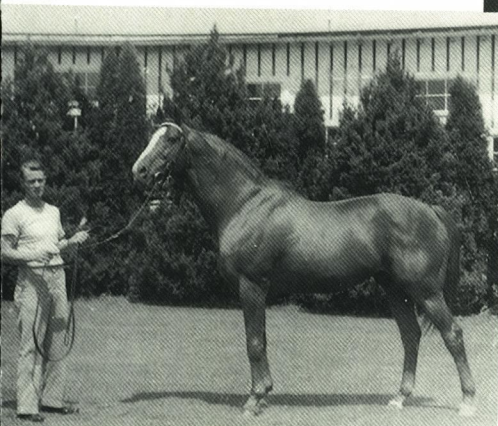

Two great histories: one bright future.

The farm: Established in 1933 by Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Sagamore Farm has been home to some of the most influential horses in Thoroughbred racing and breeding history. The Sagamore legacy includes DISCOVERY, sire of MISS DISCO, dam of BOLD RULER. NATIVE DANCER, sire of NATALMA, dam of NORTHERN DANCER, was raised here and stood at stud here. Throughout Sagamore's 60-year history, some of the finest yearlings, 2-year-olds and older race horses have enjoyed these superb facilities.

Today's staff: Our highly qualified team is headed by John K. Adams, grandson of Hall of Fame jockey JOHN ADAMS. Winner of the 1954 Preakness Stakes aboard Hasty Road, JOHN ADAMS became a successful trainer after hanging up his tack. His charges included J.O. TOBIN, the first horse to defeat Seattle Slew. "J.K." inherited his grandfather's and father's (a jockey as well) love for horses, and began his long and successful career breaking yearlings under the tutelage of DEL CARROLL. He was a jockey for 20 years, riding for top horsemen throughout the country. We are privileged to have him head up the breaking department at Sagamore. His natural gifts and wealth of experience are unsurpassed.

World's oldest Master led charmed life

By Ross Peddicord

Everyone who hunted with Wilbur Ross Hubbard has a funny or eventful story to tell.

He was incorrigible and hunted up until he was 95. He died in December at age 97, and his passing brings back a flood of memories.

Anyone familiar with horses and hounds knows he was one of the great foxhunters of all time and simply lived to hunt.

I was fortunate enough to attend a school (Washington College in Chestertown) located in his Kent County, Md., hunting country during the time that his territory was still wide open and his pack of Penn-Marydel hounds, some 40 to 45 couple strong, was at its peak.

It wasn't long after I got settled into the routine of school that I found my way to the kennels, located only a couple of miles from my dorm, and was introduced to a whole cast of unforgettable characters, not the least of whom was the formidable Mr. Hubbard himself, and Arthur (Hounddog) Brown, his gregarious "good ol' boy" huntsman who hunted the pack for nearly 40 years.

What ensued were four years of great runs, equine pratfalls and lasting friendships that make up my own personal "golden age" of hunting.

When studies interfered, there were times when I could still sit in the classroom and hear hounds running, since some of the coverts were less than a mile from campus.

Wilbur Hubbard lived a rare and privileged life. He was one of the last holdovers of the landed gentry, raised to be a gentleman and able to maintain his own private pack.

He was fastidious and proper, stuffy to the point of being suffocating at times. But he was also a lot of fun.

He lived in "downtown" Chestertown at Widehall, his enormous colonnaded mansion on the Chester River, which was about two or three miles from the kennels. He owned several farms, mostly purchased so he'd have land to hunt over. The farms were working farms and the stable and kennels modest and practical.

The whole operation had an "Old South," Aiken, S.C., sort of feel to it.

He kept a cow at the hunter barn and brought home fresh milk every day. His cook, Matilda, made home-made cottage cheese to die for.

Only about a half-dozen local people were invited to hunt. Mr. Hubbard could hunt every day if he wanted to since it was his own pack. I remember many times going out at 9 a.m. and not getting back to the stable until dark, rain or shine.

Mr. Hubbard led the field either on Esket, a 16-hand seal brown homebred gelding who to me was the epitome of what a field hunter should look like, or on Bungay, an 18-hand Warmblood cross.

A visitor once told him that Bungay was the best-looking hunter he had ever seen. Mr. Hubbard replied: "Certainly not, but he's the tallest."

Brownie hunted Sgt. Kok or Bottom Dollar; Jack Vordemberge whipped, riding Corsair, a son of Cormac. The field was comprised of Joe Brooks, Mr. Hubbard's best friend who didn't learn to ride until he was in his 60s. He hunted Bobby, a little dark bay half-bred. Every time Mr. Brooks fell off, Bobby would run back to the barn. Joe Brooks would have to get a lift to the stable, remount and then catch back up with us. Once during a particularly fast run, he fell off and appeared seriously hurt. Mr. Hubbard told him to get back on, let the reins drop and that Bobby would take him home. That's exactly what happened.

Then there were the Houghtons, who operate Buckingham Farm on the Morganec Creek side of town and were certainly the most glamorous of the regulars. Eddie Houghton also whipped, riding Raritan Valley, a Maryland-bred champion race horse. Binnie was on Banjay, another perfect hunter, and Kim and Jen, their daughters, rode excellent ponies. Kim's pony, Starling, was bought for her in England by her grandfather, Anderson Fowler. His first day hunting, Starling kicked Mr. Hubbard in the knee, and on the second day kicked his best hound. But after that, he became a star.

WILBUR ROSS HUBBARD
1896-1993

On some of those hacks home, the girls and I would try to do gymnastics and stand up on the horses and ride them Roman style. Kim, of course, ended up galloping Sunday Silence for Charlie Whittingham and is a great horsewoman. It's tough enough now for me to get up on a horse using a mounting block.

The girls' governess usually followed in a car and would make food runs for us into Chestertown. When you stayed out all day, lunch was important, although we made sure we ate out of view of the Master, who naturally only consumed the lone sandwich in his case.

I either hunted one of the green horses or a big Warmblood named Fan Fan or a horse someone loaned me free off the race track. One mare, Fleet March, whom I had for Sen. James Clark in Howard County, ran off with me so much that Eddie Houghton suggested we run her at nearby Dover Downs, which then had a Thoroughbred meet. She'd hunt one weekend and run at Dover the next, although she never won a race.

Another favorite was a mare named Play Love, whom Sen. Clark's mother Alda Hopkins Clark shipped down for me to hunt. Mrs. Clark told me the mare was an ex-hurdler who came from Leiter Aitcheson's barn and was a good and experienced jumper. Eddie and I schooled head to head over fences and Play Love would send the rails flying. We made our timber debut at Howard County. In preparation, I galloped Play Love every day ten times around a couple of fields behind the kennels. I thought each lap was about a half-mile. Later I found out the distance was nearly a mile: I had been galloping her ten miles a day in preparation for that race.

She almost won, but she ran out at the last fence when she took the lead. We were so used to following Mr. Hubbard or Eddie over a fence that we didn't know what to do once we got in front. Afterwards, Mrs. Clark, who was then in her 70s and couldn't see too well, told me that she had been mistaken. Prior to her Kent County adventures, that mare had never jumped a fence in her life.

The hounds were so fast and the country so flat and open that you needed a fit horse to keep up. At one point in my life, I think I knew every wheat field and stream crossing in a five to ten-mile radius of those Kent County kennels.

During goose hunting season, Mr. Hubbard couldn't hunt at home so he took his hounds on his famous hunting tours. He and Brownie and the hounds traveled from Connecticut to Georgia to Kentucky, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Jack Vordemberge remembers that "when those hounds got out of soybeans (a staple crop on the Eastern Shore) and onto grass, they could really fly."

Jack's most memorable hunt was a joint meet at Old Dominion when the hounds ran for three hours straight up and down that hilly part of Virginia. He recalls another time when Mr. Hubbard had a fall and he gave him a lift across a stream on Bungay. Bungay started bucking and dumped them both in the water.

Mr. Hubbard was also a regular fixture at Green Spring and Elkridge-Harford and loved to entertain out-of-town hunting guests from all over the world and the U.S. at Widehall. His best foxhunting buddies were probably Peggy and Sherman Haight, Masters of the Litchfield County Hounds.

Such hunts as the Essex (N.J.) Hounds would also bring their packs to Kent County. At one particular joint meet with the Warrenton (Va.) Hunt, there was a terrible fall and a woman broke her leg.

As hounds ran on, Mary Jane Eavenson, a friend of mine from Washington College, and I were appointed to go to her rescue. We were racing around, jumping gates and rushing to the nearest house to call the Rescue Squad. We thought our horses, Ralph's Girl and Helio Joy, were so fit after that that we'd enter them that weekend at the Warrenton point-to-point. We won the pair race. A week later, I was back in the hunt field with Helio Joy, owned by the late Jean Crook of Centreville, and received the ultimate compliment when Bill Brainerd, visiting MFH of Old Dominion and another great foxhunter like Mr. Hubbard, offered to buy the horse.

But those were the good old days. I graduated and had to seek gainful employment. The Houghtons eventually stopped hunting. Jack Vordemberge went on to mind the family business and no longer whipped. He was replaced by Joan Hill, who stayed on and whipped for 23 years and served for the last two years of Mr. Hubbard's life as his caregiver.

Two years ago Mr. Hubbard had a fall and stopped hunting. Up to that point, two local ladies, Marion Grieb Haupt and Sally Maenek, accompanied him in the hunt field and stayed by his side. He then sold his hounds to the Wicomico Hunt in Salisbury. His last two hunters, Astute and Argonne, now live in retirement with Brownie, who at 81 has his own small farm in Chestertown with his wife, Peggy.

Widehall and the farms, amounting to about 1,200 acres, will now be sold although the farmland is protected by conservation easements. With his passing, in addition to all of Mr. Hubbard's community contributions, Kent County has lost its recognized pack of foxhounds.

But hunting with Wilbur Ross Hubbard was a once in a lifetime experience.

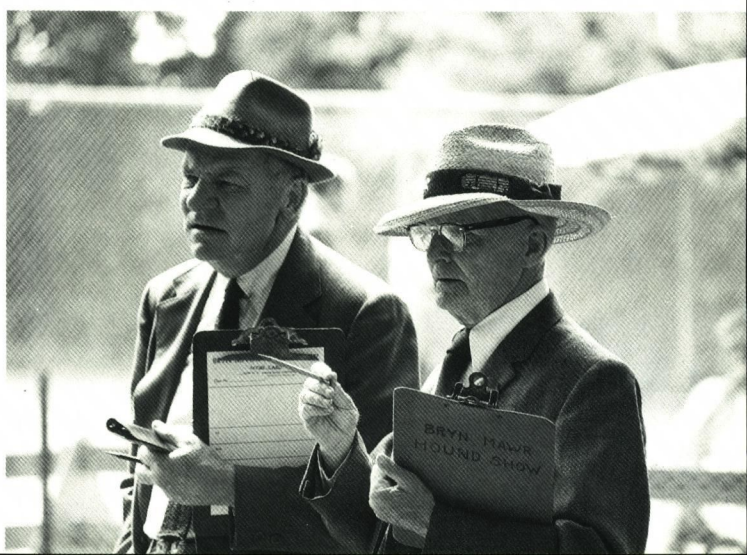

As Brownie, who provided all that great sport, recently said, "He really enjoyed himself."

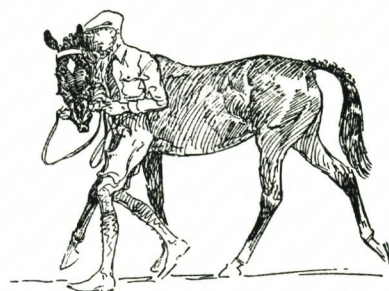

When I think of Mr. Hubbard, one image stands out: he is mounted on one of his sturdy homebreds, hounds are in full cry and, as always, Wilbur Ross Hubbard leads the field.

Weisman Pavilion has grand opening

Rosecroft Raceway celebrated the grand opening of its new Frederick R. Weisman Pavilion in early January, with much enthusiasm accompanying the debut of the new structure, which replaces the grandstand area destroyed by fire in November, 1991.

Highlighting the festivities, on January 7, was a formal ribbon-cutting ceremony, with local dignitaries and racing heroes, including Harness Hall of Famers Buddy Gilmour and John Patterson Sr., joining Rosecroft officials for the occasion.

The new pavilion was filled the following night by the famous sounds of The Drifters, in concert.

The Weisman Pavilion features carpeted viewing areas, expanded concession spaces and a plush box and reserved seating section with individual televisions.

Grand opening week boosted business considerably. Attendance was up 17.7 percent compared to the previous month; handle rose 14.9 percent.

STANDARD BRED

District 11 was held January 8 in Ocean City.

Cloverleaf president Gerald Brittingham, of Greenbelt, Md., addressed the membership, giving details of the impact in 1993 of satellite simulcast wagering and inter-track wagering. Harness horsemen raced for $1.3 million more in 1993 than they did in 1992.

Cloverleaf elected ten directors to three-year terms. Bob Kinsey and Dale Milby were returned in the at-large category; incumbents Ralph Holloway and Dr. Roger Omwake were joined by Ralph Hayward and Sally Surber on the owners' slate; and the trainers' positions were filled by newcomers Walt Callahan and Wayne Givens along with returnees Pres Moore Jr. and Dan Camac.

Mike Slaughter was elected to the board of the U.S. Trotting Association and will join incumbents Dale Massey (district chairman) and Ted Snell at the USTA's annual directors meeting in March.

Divisional leaders within the Cloverleaf jurisdiction were honored at the association's annual awards banquet which took place that night. They are:

Two-year-old colt pacer: Margie's Tyler, owned by Ruth Dudley, Cordova, Md.

Two-year-old filly pacer: Lovin Yankee, owned by Dan Bittle, Charles Keller III and Charles Keller IV, Frederick, Md.

Maryland Horse Council

Representing the Common Interests of All Horse Organizations in Maryland

1994 Horse Industry Directory

The American Horse Council recently announced that the 1994 Horse Industry Directory is available for purchase. The directory is the most comprehensive source of information on horse-related organizations and publications in the United States and abroad. The 1994 edition commemorates the American Horse Council's 25th anniversary.

The 1994 Horse Industry Directory contains statistical information about the horse industry in addition to names, addresses and telephone numbers of state horse councils; equine-related publications; racing, showing, rodeo and trails organizations; Extension specialists; breed associations and registries; interstate health requirements; and an alphabetical index of each directory listing.

The 1994 Horse Industry Directory costs $20. To order a copy, send your request with a check, payable to the American Horse Council, to: American Horse Council, 1700 K Street, N.W., Suite 300, Washington, D.C. 20006-3805.

MARYLAND HORSE COUNCIL

The Maryland Horse Council, Inc., is a non-profit association established in 1984 to unite and represent the common interests of all horse-related organizations in Maryland, as well as to serve as industry spokesman. House deletes funding for trails

Fifteen million dollars appropriated by the Senate to fund the National Recreational Trails Trust Fund for fiscal year 1994 was unexpectedly deleted from the Department of Transportation's appropriations bill at the last minute. Objections to the appropriation were raised by Congressmen Norm Mineta of California and Bud Shuster of Pennsylvania, ostensibly for procedural reasons. The Senate had appropriated $15 million for the Fund at the urging of Senator Ben Nighthorse Campbell of Colorado.

Fiscal year 1994 funding for the National Recreational Trails program will now have to be sought through a supplemental appropriations bill later this year.

The American Horse Council has been working with the Coalition for Recreational Trails (CRT) to ensure that the provisions of the Symms National Recreation Trails Act of 1991 are carried out and that the trails fund set up by the Act receives funding adequate to meet the needs of the nation's trail users. The AHC is a founding member of the CRT.

Along with seeking 1994 funding through a supplemental appropriation, the AHC will continue to push for legislation clarifying the 1991 Symms Act so that funds will be appropriated automatically through the gas taxes paid each year by off-road vehicles, rather than through the annual appropriations process. Although the Symms Act, which set up the fund, was intended to provide automatic contract spending authority, an omission inadvertently made the funding for trail construction and maintenance subject to the annual Congressional appropriations process.

This has proven to be a difficult process with no funds actually appropriated in 1992, $7.5 million appropriated in 1993, and the last-minute problem this year, even though $30 million had been authorized for each year.

MHC arranges magazine discount for members

The Maryland Horse Council and The Maryland Horse have agreed to a special arrangement that allows qualified subscribers a 25 percent discount off the regular annual subscription price. To qualify one need only be a member of the Maryland Horse Council, or a member of an organization that is an association or youth member of MHC.

The Maryland Horse has recently changed its focus from covering primarily racing to reporting on all breeds and uses of equines in the state. In other words, The Maryland Horse is returning to its original roots, while maintaining its professional award-winning style. Since the change, every issue has included the Maryland Horse Council's newsletter, and plans are for this special feature to continue.

Subscribers will receive bi-monthly issues, including the annual February directory. What's more, subscribers may designate their choice of MHC member organizations to receive a $2.50 rebate—per subscription—from The

From the president. . .

What can Maryland Horse Council do for me?

Many of the activities of Maryland Horse Council are designed to bring horses and horse people together with the general public. It seems clear that the more familiar our neighbors and lawmakers become with horses, the more able we will be to interest these folks in our concerns and enlist their support on various issues.

In general, today's John Q. Public has little to do with horses. Gone are the backyard horses in everybody's town. Nearly extinct are the hack stables across town. Horses aren't even on TV much any more—Gunsmoke, Bonanza and How the West was Won are hardly even a memory for most people. So, it appears that if we horse people are going to be able to depend on public sympathy, we will first have to generate an audience. And that is exactly what Maryland Horse Council did in 1993:

In January, your president and treasurer (Elizabeth Madlener and Beverly Raymond) coordinated with PIC to organize and assist the equestrian units in the 1993 Presidential Inaugural Parade. MHC member groups involved included PVDA, the Humane Society and Maryland Horse Center.

In February, Mary Lou Bartram, MHC executive committee (representing Maryland Jousting Tournament Association) was inducted into Maryland's Athletic Hall of Fame. She is the first jouser, one of the few women, and the only non-racing horse person ever to receive such an honor.

In March, MHC established the Maryland Horsemen's Hall of Fame, honoring King T. Leatherbury as the first member. Appropriately, the induction was held at the annual 4-H Horsemen's Party and Auction, where for the fourth year in a row, MHC assisted the 4-H Foundation in raising over $10,000 for its horse endowment fund.

In June, the Horse Council took a major first step in its efforts to foster strong ties between the Maryland horse industry and our public officials. On June 5, National Trails Day and Governor Schaefer's proclaimed Maryland Trails Day, Maryland Horse Council held the first MARYLAND LEGISLATIVE DAY. For several hours member organizations of the Maryland Horse Council treated public officials to demonstrations and explanations of a wide variety of equestrian activities. Participating member groups included the Maryland Park Police, Maryland Jousting Tournament Association, Maryland Royal Regiment, Mason-Dixon Trail Riders, Potomac Bridle and Hiking Trails Association, League of Maryland Horsemen, Maryland Council for Equestrian Therapies, Freedom Hills Therapeutic Riding Program, Goshen Hunt Club, Potomac Pony Club, Maryland Horse Shows Association, Potomac Valley Dressage Association, Maryland Combined Training Association, Plantation Driving Society, Mid-Atlantic Morgan Horse Association, steeplechase, flat racing and Standardbred racing representatives, as well as representatives from various breed groups: Arabians, Assateague ponies, Missouri Fox Trotters, Morgans, Paso Finos, Plantation Walking Horses and Quarter Horses.

August and September were highlighted by the Maryland Horse Council booth at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. This year, nearly every member organization participated, manning the booth and sharing information about the horse industry in general as well as about their special interest groups in particular.

In October, Maryland Horse Council supported the International Turf Festival and Trade Show by manning a booth and assisting in organizing various events which included demonstrations of foxhunting, trick riding, dressage and jumping.

Sprinkled throughout the year were efforts by the Maryland Horse Council on behalf of the Maryland Jousting Tournament Association (to ensure jousting continues as the official state sport), the pleasure horse seminar in Carroll County and equestrian trail groups. The most significant event for Maryland horsemen was the publication of the initial report of Dr. Malcolm Commer's study of the Economic Impact of Maryland's Pleasure Horse Industry.

In addition to the promotion of horses and horse people, Maryland Horse Council takes responsibility for keeping "the choir" informed on federal and state issues that impact our industry. In the past, we have depended heavily on our column in The Equiery as a vehicle. This past year, however, we were able to supplement and expand our newsletter to four pages through an agreement with The Maryland Horse. (For those who are not yet enjoying the new format of this magazine, a subscription would be highly worthwhile. Not only does this lovely glossy keep us up to date on the industry, but subscriptions also benefit the treasuries of members' individual clubs and the MHC.)

As an organization for organizations, Maryland Horse Council also works to assist its members with strengthening their internal structures. This past April an informal seminar, "The Organization of Organizations," was offered. Three experts, Dr. Malcolm Commer, Rich Wilcke and Craig Gegorek, provided attendees with information on the accepted methods for taking minutes at meetings, for maintaining balance sheets and for developing and maintaining membership lists.

All in all, 1993 was a very productive year. Even so, when someone asks, "What can Maryland Horse Council do for me?" and some respond, "A great deal," others may still think "Not much." It depends on a person's point of view.

However, Maryland Horse Council is not meant to serve the individual nor the individual organization per se. The mission of MHC, rather, is to unite all horse people and horse organizations into a single, formidable voice, actively working to protect the special interests of Maryland's horse industry at large.

Perhaps, rather than asking, "What can Maryland Horse Council do for me?" it would be better to rephrase to "What can we achieve through Maryland Horse Council?" Here, the answer is obvious. Together, we have the very best possibility of ensuring a place for horses in modern-day society.

Despite our differences, I believe this is one goal we can all agree upon. It's 1994, so let's get started!

/Elizabeth Madlener

Maryland Livestock Producer Code of Practice

As producers and caretakers of farm animals and poultry, we recognize that our business success depends in large part on the wise and caring stewardship of both the animals and the natural resources under our control. Therefore, Maryland farm and livestock associations are dedicated to the following:

- Sustenance and conservation of natural resources through the proper management of soil, water and wildlife;*
- Humane care and treatment of every animal, regardless of its value, ultimate purpose, or ownership;*
- Provision of fresh water, sound shelter and adequate space in a manner conducive to health and well-being;*
- Highest possible standards of nutrition, health and safety as a consequence of standard operating procedure;*
- Use of transporting equipment and handling facilities that are well-designed, properly maintained and secure;*
- Routine visual inspection of all animals, with a frequency sufficient to ensure their continuous well-being;*
- Periodic consultation with a qualified veterinarian concerning appropriate breeding, health and care practices;*
- Use of approved feed supplements and animal health products in accordance with their label directions;*
- Production of healthy offspring, and, where applicable, wholesome, high-quality and nutritious food products.*

The Maryland Horse Directory

The following pages contain a comprehensive listing of Maryland stallions, and equine-related services and organizations.

Extensive effort was made to gather complete and accurate information. Many sources were utilized, including breed associations, equine publications, the Maryland Business Directory, Maryland Department of Agriculture, University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, American Association of Equine Practitioners and Maryland Farriers Association. In addition, we received word from many individuals in response to The Maryland Horse mailer sent out last fall.

However, omissions and errors, as well as changes, do occur. The Maryland Horse disclaims responsibility for the consequences, if any, of such errors, but would appreciate their being called to its attention. Please send the forms (copies are acceptable) found on pages 112 and 148 to keep us up-to-date.

Looking back

By Molly Sorge

50 Years Ago. . .

■ Chit Chat—"as honest a pony as ever looked through a bridle"—was honored for the third straight year as Maryland's champion pony. Shown by Hugh Wiley, he performed successfully in hunter, jumper, hack and driving classes.

■ Manuel A. deMoya, a personal representative of the president of the Dominican Republic, visited the area. Assisted by the Maryland Horse Breeders Association, he toured local farms and purchased over 50 horses from Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia for the foundation of racing stock in his country.

■ Eighty-eight establishments, including many still in existence today, were listed on Maryland's Thoroughbred farm roster. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm was home to five stallions—Identify, Dauber, New World, Impound and the immortal Discovery.

30 Years Ago. . .

■ The demolition of Bel Air race track, delayed by legal wrangling, marked the end of an era. Founded in 1937 by G. Ray Bryson, the track conducted 25 years of racing before its final meeting in 1962. The rubble of its remains evoked memories of its former glory, while a lone tree in the centerfield stood lonely and bare, awaiting the inevitable bulldozer.

■ Sagamore Farm and Christiana Stables embarked on a "breakthrough" plan to concentrate on the production of Maryland-bred foals. The farms sought to take advantage of Maryland's new $1,000,000 breeding and racing program by having more than 90 percent of their mares foal in this state.

Commenting on the Sagamore plan, general manager Harold Ferguson said: "The quality of Maryland's stallions is improving, and we feel now for the first time that we don't have to ship all our mares to Kentucky."

■ The Professional Horsemen's Association annual banquet culminated with the presentation of an oil painting to Pat Gorrell, the rider of Imalock, the PHA green working hunter champion. The Gorrells emphasized the involvement of the entire family in the campaign of Imalock.

10 Years Ago. . .

■ An interview with Jim Steele, manager of Shamrock Farm, revealed the success he had had in transforming the facility. When Steele began in 1977, the farm stood one stallion, St. Bonaventure, and housed 40 horses. Seven years later he had expanded the stallion roster to six Thoroughbreds and one Standardbred and the farm was home to 120 horses. Steele's commitment was evident not only in his efforts but also in his words: "I put my heart and soul into it."

■ Margaret Worrall traveled to the Eastern Shore to enjoy a day's hunting with Thomas G. Wyman's pack of hounds on his Wye Heights Plantation. Mr. Wyman bought the land in 1942 planning to farm, but instead turned to raising a flock of rare black Welsh mountain sheep. His predominantly English foxhounds were a private pack.

■ Prepping for his 4-year-old campaign, Preakness winner Deputed Testamony had just returned from 30 days of light training in Southern Pines, N.C. Syndicated for $5 million, the Maryland-bred was being brought along "slow and easy" by his part-owner and trainer J. William Boniface.

MHBA celebrates 65 years of service

Nineteen-ninety-four is the 65th year of the Maryland Horse Breeders Association (MHBA), which was officially incorporated on January 16, 1929, one business day before the date of the initial MHBA board meeting in Sparks in Baltimore County.

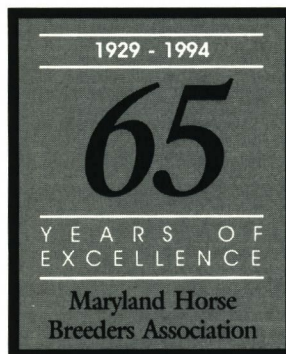

The following are direct quotes from the certificate of incorporation filed that day with the State Tax Commission regarding the purposes for which the corporation was formed:

"... fostering and preserving of traditions pertaining to the horse... determination and development of the best types of horses of all breeds... bringing to the attention of breeders, farmers and others, the advantages of breeding to only purebred sires... dissemination of information regarding the proper breeding of horses of all breeds... publishing experiences pertaining to the breeding, development or use of horses, which may be useful in connection with the production and development of the best types of all breeds... to collect, compile, print and publish every kind of information of interest to breeders of horses... to protect the interests of breeders, owners and users of horses against unjust or unreasonable legislation, and to maintain their lawful rights and privileges..."

We consider it appropriate for MHBA to publish on its 65th anniversary a special directory issue devoted to the entire horse industry in Maryland. While recognizing some lists may be incomplete, readers nonetheless have more information in this one book than has been heretofore available.

We hope this issue becomes an important year-round resource, and we hope the publication of it is in keeping with the original aspirations of the founders of the organization.
